Springs Woman Slain, Police Report Says

In the early hours before dawn today, a woman was beaten to death in her home with a pop bottle after an argument with her boyfriend, police reported.

Dead at the scene of the crime was Brigitta A. Riddick, 28, of 236 E. Victoria St. Patrolman Jerome P. Busemeyer said he arrived at 236 E. Victoria St., at approximately 5:45 a.m. in response to a call from that address by a man who said there had been a murder there.

Busemeyer said as he drove up to the house someone hollered at him and said "she's in there." He said he took the man with him and went into the house, where he found the body laying just inside the front door. The head of the victim was badly bruised, and there was a cut on her upper lip on the right side of the nose, according to the report.

Omaha Bribery Charges Probed By Grand Jury

OMAHA (AP)—Douglas County's first grand jury session in ten years was in its fifth day Friday taking testimony in connection with allegations of corruption in city government.

The grand jury call stemmed from allegations of a Chicago investor, published in the Omaha World-Herald, that certain city officials had agreed to accept bribes in connection with a rezoning project.

District Judge Paul C. Garrotto cautioned the jurors they were appointed "so that all violators should be brought to the bar of justice to answer for their crimes; and on the other hand that the innocent, however strongly assailed by their accusers, should on full investigation be securely protected."

Only the name of the jury foreman, Maynard T. Swartz Jr., a printing company executive, was made public and none of the witnesses appearing before the grand jury have been identified.

The grand jury consists of eight men and eight women with

City Planners Okay Annexation of 1,016 Acres

City Planning Commissioners Thursday approved annexation of 1,016 acres to Colorado Springs and a zoning change to permit construction of a high rise apartment building on a city block of land.

Approved was annexation of 1,016.2 acres near Airport Road and South Circle Drive requested by Roy Pring.

This area was beyond the water service boundary and in the process of being subdivided. However the Public Utilities Department gave planners a favorable report. The fire department said the area far exceeded recommended running time until a new fire station could be constructed at Chelton and Airport Roads. The police department also said they needed additional manpower to properly serve the area.

Pikes Peak Golf Club land would be included in the annexation. The City Planning Department is working on a special zone applicable to such uses as golf courses, requested by Pring. This may result in a tax assessment on such zoning equitable to such uses.

Within the annexation, various zoning was approved by the CPC. One request lost in two, four to four tie votes. Under consideration was a zoning change for .77 acres southwest of Academy Boulevard and Airport Road by Pikes Peak Golf Club. The first vote was to make this C-6 business. After this proposal lost, another vote lost to make the tract C-4 business. The tract will remain R-2 single family residential.

One discussion was sparked by a zoning request by Shepard Land Co. on the Pring annexa-

Justice Office to Collect $178 Million in Fines

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON —(Special) — The Justice Department is finally doing something about trying to collect more than $178 million in fines, judgments and other assessments imposed by federal courts.

Acting Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach has directed the 93 U.S. attorneys throughout the country to institute immediate vigorous measures to collect the unpaid accounts in their districts. Under the law, these federal prosecutors are responsible for that, but the record shows most have been very lax.

To ensure that this long-overdue crackdown is carried out, Katzenbach has established a special collection unit in his department's Civil Division.

Manned with "collection specialists," the new agency has the specific function of seeing to it that both the huge backlog of pending assessments and those hereafter imposed by federal courts are paid. The agency will accomplish this primarily by maintaining a close check-up on the U.S. attorneys.

This is the first time the Justice Department has done anything about this problem.

The need for such forceful action is clearly shown by the fact that an estimated $50 million—more than one-fourth of the outstanding $178 million — is deemed uncollectable for a variety of reasons.

The Justice Department's belated reform is directly due to an unpublicized investigation by a House Government Operations subcommittee, headed by Representative Dante Fascell, D-Fla.

Working quietly and thoroughly, this group of three Democrats and two Republicans examining the government's collection procedures has pinpointed a number of glaring shortcomings. The probe is far from complete. The preliminary findings cover only the Justice Department. Other departments are being subjected to the same searching scrutiny.

Trinidad Hotel Burns; One Guest Missing

TRINIDAD (AP) — The Coronado Hotel, an old-four-story structure in downtown Trinidad, burned today and one of the eight residents was reported missing.

Police said the missing man was Elmer Knight, a retired business man in his early 60's. The other guests, all elderly men, escaped in 19 degree temperature in their night clothes. No one was injured.

Three businesses located on the ground floor of the hotel and an adjoining one-story building were also destroyed. They were the Garbo Insurance Co., Sisneros Barber Shop and Fidelity Loan Co., located in the hotel, and the Tarabino Clothing Store adjacent to it. The Golden Bar Grill was damaged.

Firemen reported that the fire apparently started about 2 a.m. in the rear basement where the boiler room was located. Flames were roaring up to the roof of the building when the firemen arrived. Some residents were wandering dazedly in the halls and had to be led to safety.

The rear wall of the hotel collapsed and showered bricks up to the front door of the Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Trinidad's largest church located just behind the hotel. There was no damage to the church.

The 50-year-old hotel was located on North Commercial Street, one block from the main business intersection in Trinidad.

Cause of the fire and damage estimate were not immediately determined.

'Cautious Hope' Is Reported For Averting Railroad Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal mediator expressed cautious hope today for a settlement as meetings with the nation's railroads and six shop craft unions resume under the shadow of a strike threat.

Francis A. O'Neill of the National Mediation Board said that separate meetings "went all right" Thursday and reported "good progress." O'Neill said he met all day and into the night with the parties, but declined to elaborate on what was accomplished.

The six shop craft unions have turned down a presidential emergency board's proposed pay increases. Some 140,000 members are set to strike at 6 a.m. local time Monday if no settlement is reached.

A union spokesman said such a strike would halt service on the 187 railroads and terminal switching companies which handle more than 90 per cent of the nation's rail traffic.

The emergency board recommended a 27-cent-an-hour wage increase for union members. But the unions contend their members have special skills which make them underpaid in relation to other nonoperating rail workers and comparable jobs in industry.

The unions are classified nonoperating because they maintain and repair trains and railroad equipment and are not actually involved in movement of trains.

J. E. Wolf, chief negotiator for the nation's carriers, has insisted that any settlement be made within the framework of the emergency board's recommendations.

Michael Fox, president of the Railway Employes Department and spokesman for the six unions, said that there will be a strike Monday unless the unions receive a satisfactory settlement from the railroads.

More Protests Than Praise Heard in Cutback of Bases

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Unthinkable". . ."unjustified". . . "absolutely devastating". . ."courageous."

And so it went, more protests than praise. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara had swung the axe.

He issued the order Thursday to close, phase out or consolidate 95 military installations, from shipyards to radar stations.

Worried about the possible loss of millions of dollars in business in some areas, Congress members joined town fathers in firing off demands for reviews, investigations and reconsiderations of the closings.

But McNamara, standing firm, said the closings could be "good news" if communities turn the facilities to productive use under private ownership.

Anyway, he declared, the decisions are absolutely irrevocable unless there is some convincing new evidence, and "the chance of that is damned small."

Some went digging for new evidence.

Among them was New York's brand-new Sen.-elect Robert F. Kennedy, who got the word personally from McNamara that the historic New York Navy Yard at Brooklyn, with its 9,600 workers, would be shut down within 18 months.

Kennedy called for a commission to review the shutdowns, saying: "The repercussions are so drastic we are entitled to know the reasons behind the decision, and the decision cannot be accepted on the basis of the limited evidence now available."

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., similarly called for establishment of a commission to study the local economic impact.

Some saw the dark hand of politics mixing in the situation.

Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., spoke of "cynical, political timing" and declared: "The sublime indifference with which the Department of Defense has presented Thanksgiving greetings to the thousands of workers employed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard and other military installations . . . contrasts sharply and sourly with intense interest shown in postponing the announcement until after the elections."

Trying to stamp out any charges that some of the closings could have been inspired by political revenge was Democratic Sen. Russell B. Long, who represents Louisiana, one of the five Southern states Barry Goldwater carried in the presidential election.

Only one installation in his state had been affected, said Long, and he found this to be proof that under President Johnson and McNamara "defense installations would be closed out on military and not political considerations."

But many of the towns which have enjoyed government payrolls for years were worrying about the economic impact.

Topeka, Kan., for example, is losing one missile complex, affecting only 22 civilian employes. But the Chamber of Commerce's executive vice president, Wayne Dawson, estimated that "it will mean about a $3.8-million loss to the city's economy. It will be felt by the entire community."

Olmsted Air Force Base funnels a $70-million annual payroll into the Harrisburg, Pa., area from 11,000 persons, most of them in the air materiel area, which is to be phased out.

Republican Gov. William W. Scranton called the move "absolutely devastating to the economy of central Pennsylvania." He argued it would add thousands to the ranks of the unemployed.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., claimed Pentagon officials had told him in October no decision would be made for 90 to 120 days on the Terre Haute defense facility, which was on the list. He requested reconsideration.

Many towns, however, saw little to worry about.

Mayor Maurice Berlinsky of Joliet, Ill., believes local industry will be able to absorb the 763 persons affected by the closing of the nearby Elwood unit of the Joliet Arsenal.

At Plattsburgh, N.Y., where the Air Force will close an Atlas missile complex, Mayor John Tyrell found the situation "not too bad."

As the protests rumbled in, the Chamber of Commerce urged towns and businessmen to hold their fire.

Chamber President Walter F. Carey, in telegrams to local Chamber presidents, said he

He did not himself drive in any of the hill climbs, but Al Rogers drove Coniff's car in the five races in which he won first place and in four races in which he was second place winner. He was also associated with another Pikes Peak racer, Louis Unser.

Mr. Coniff was born in Colorado Springs, Dec. 12, 1908. He attended St. Mary's School and was a graduate of the Harrison High School. He attended the Pikes Peak Aviation School and was a licensed commercial aircraft pilot. He was a member of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church and of the Holy Name Society.

Military Payroll In Colorado Is Little Affected

DENVER (AP)—The closing of bases and shifting of various functions likely will mean little change in Colorado's defense establishment payrolls, a top officer said today.

Maj. Gen. Charles H. Anderson, technical training commander at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver, said in discussing the policy changes announced in Washington Thursday that, "in the end our military and civilian population should be approximately what it is now, maybe more."

The major changes affecting Colorado are concerned with Lowry. They call for:

— Inactivation by June 30, 1965, of 18 Titan I missile silos staffed now by 1,533 officers and airmen and 87 civilians.

—Closing down all Lowry flying operations by June 30, 1966.

—Transferring to Lowry some of the Air Force technical training now conducted at the Amarillo, Tex., Air Base which will be shut down.

The military employes at the Titan sites will be transferred and career civilian employes will be offered other jobs, Anderson said.

"We have no specific information as to what additional training we will pick up," Anderson said, but he expected it to at least replace in numbers the Titan personnel that will be displaced.

Anderson said he expected Lowry's annual defense budget to continue around the current $73.1 million and the military and civilian payroll of approximately $39 million to continue at the present level.

The flying operations at Lowry will be transferred to Buckley Air National Guard Base east of Denver and to Peterson Field at Colorado Springs.

Lowry's technical training center flying activities will be relocated at Buckley while Air Force Academy support aircraft now at Lowry will be moved to Colorado Springs. The Academy craft will be moved in two increments with T33 jets to be transferred by March 31, 1965, and conventional aircraft by June 30, 1966.

Anderson said the closing of Lowry's flying activities was dictated by flying safety, operational requirements and economic considerations.

He said residential encroachment of the Lowry area has made it nearly impossible for Lowry AFB to ccommodate modern high performance aircraft. The urban encroachment also has created serious flying safety problems, he said.

The personnel movements to Peterson Field will involve 87

Trianon Summer White House Is Proposed

State Democratic Committee Chairman Robert Maytag has forwarded a suggestion to U.S. Congressman-Elect Frank Evans to make the Trianon a Summer White House.

Said Maytag, in a letter to J. Kirk Baldwin, former Wyoming state treasurer:

"I think this is a tremendous idea that would certainly be helpful to the Democratic Party of Colorado and the general health of the president and members of Congress.

"Since we now have a Democratic congressman to represent the Colorado Springs area, I am forwarding a copy of your letter to Frank Evans. I am sure he will pass the suggestion along to the appropriate people."

The idea of making the Trianon a Summer White House was sparked by Baldwin, who now lives in Denver, in two letters. One was to Maytag and another to an official of a Denver newspaper.

"For years there has been a movement to have the capitol of the United States moved farther West." Baldwin said in his letter to Maytag.

Because Congress will remain in session for the better part of every year, he added, "Why not start if off with the president moving to Colorado Spring each summer when it is so hot and humid during these several weeks each year?

"Various schools in and about Colorado Springs could be converted into Senate and House chambers when classes have been dismissed for the summer vacations. Likewise, Colorado College might provide ample space."

In the other letter Baldwin said his proposal ". . . needs publicity in view of the short time there is before the workers are brought in to raze this beautiful estate and the contents are auctioned."

Full Shutdown Seen in Ford Auto Production

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. may cease production of all its automobiles by tonight because of what it calls local plant strike tie-ups.

Normally, Ford makes 10,000 cars a day.

A Ford spokesman at company headquarters in Dearborn confirmed that the Mustang has been the only car produced since Tuesday.

Results of New Comedy Said To Be Drab

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time in her Broadway career, Geraldine Page tackles romantic gaiety in "P.S. I Love You," which premiered Thursday night at Henry Miller's Theater. The results are drab.

Miss Page has attained eminence with an unceasing sequence of portraits of distress, dimsay and despair. The caper adapted by Lawrence Roman from a French original by Andre Roussin must have seemed just the ticket for change.

Playing the wife of an American diplomat on the loose in Paris, Miss Page gets a chance to parade about in an assortment of stylish duds, twirl a foot-long cigaret holder to comic purpose and indulge in discreet flirtation with an amorous Parisian.

This gallant, enacted by Gilles Pelletier (who hails from Quebec), is intent on keeping friendship platonic. He writes letters to her, thereby instigating all sorts of witless confusion involving the pair's respective mates.

The tenuous trivia is the sort that can be kept bubbling with ensemble brilliance and imaginative direction.

Treating Cold, Souls Required of Doctor

DENVER (AP) — Dr. Julius Michaelson said Wednesday Americans "want a doctor who can treat colds as well as their souls."

Dr. Michaelson, president of the American Academy of General Practice, said in an interview success of the free enterprise system is tied to the number of general practioners turned out by the nation's medical schools.

"Unless the free enterprise private practice is preserved, our entire country in a short time will be completely socialized," he said.

The Alabama physician said in his travels he finds people "looking for one doctor to manage all their medical problems and to guide them through the maze of specialists' attention about which they know too little to chart their own courses."

Dr. Michaelson addressed students at the University of Colorado Medical School Wednesday.

Civilian Payroll Costs Increasing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The civilian payroll costs of the federal government increased by $6.8 billion the last 10 years, a congressional committee reported today.

During this period, the number of employes of all federal agencies increased by more than 52,000, the report of the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures noted.

In the 10-year period, the report said, civilian agencies increased their employment by more than a quarter-million. Military agencies had a decrease of some 210,000 workers, although the civilian payroll costs of the military increased more than $2 billion.

Hunting and Fishing

By DICK MOORE

Hunters have a sort of smorgasbord beginning this weekend — so much hunting that a choice will be hard to make.

The Eastern Slope duck season opens at dawn Saturday. Daily bag and possession limits are 4 and 8, with no more than 2 and 4 mallards. Hunting hours are sunrise to sunset.

For the fellow who still happens to be sporting an unfilled turkey license there's a post season on gobblers opening November 21 in Garfield County, part of Mesa County and on the Uncompahgre Plateau.

The North Park post deer season opens on the same day. Bag limit is two deer, hunter's choice. And another deer post season opens that day on Southern Ute Indian Reservation land west of U. S. Highway 550.

Goose season is open statewide; pheasants and quail are legal statewide through Sunday, and in one area through the end of December and rabbits are legal targets — so about the only limit on hunting opportunity is a sportsman's stamina.

An additional post deer season in the area west of Monarch Pass was set by the Colorado Game, Fish and Parks Department at its meeting Nov. 5. The season was set because the deer kill from this area was down 30 per cent over last year and because the area has poor winter range.

Dates for the season are Saturday through Nov. 29; bag limit is one deer of either sex. Only an unfilled first-deer license will be good for the season.

The area open includes those portions of Game Management Unit 55 in Gunnison and Saguache counties lying north of U.S. Highway 50 and east of Quartz Creek highway from Parlin to Cumberland Pass, and those portions of Gunnison and Saguache counties in Unit 65, lying south of U. S. Highway 50 and east of State Highway 114 to North Pass.

Although indications are that the 1964 harvest of deer will be slightly lower than last year, Game, Fish and Parks Department check station figures also indicate that elk and bear were taken in larger numbers than ever before.

Six check stations, located at Del Norte, Idaho Springs, Monarch Pass, Rifle, Ted's Place and Artesia counted 1,321 elk — an increase of 26 per cent over 1963.

Bear kills jumped from 87 to 119 for 1964. More restrictive deer seasons this year resulted in a slight decrease over past years. However the 7 per cent decrease was anticipated and reflects a continuing sound management policy of the state's deer herds.

Complete harvest figures won't be available until after the first of the year, when all report cards have been mailed in. Hunters are requested to mail in their report cards as soon as their licenses are filled, or if they do not intend to hunt during any of the post seasons.

Changes in the 1965 fishing regulations were made by the Colorado Game, Fish and Parks Commission meeting Nov. 5-6.

Changes in the regulations included the deletion of the fly fishing only area between Upper and Lower Woody Creek Bridges on the Roaring Fork River downstream from Aspen.

The deletion was made when it was learned that the persons asking for the season last month at the commission's meeting in Montrose had not contacted the landowners adjoining this section of the stream.

These landowners had petitioned the commission to remove the restrictions or they would close their lands to all fishing. Also deleted from the fly fishing only regulations was Lincoln Gulch, a tributary of the Roaring Fork in the same area.

"Whether you're staked out in a blind, hunting over decoys, or pass shooting, be sure you stay well hidden to avoid scaring ducks or geese before they are in range," says Ted McCawley, manager of public relations for Remington Arms.

"All too often, hunters stand around in the open in full view until a flight comes into sight. Then they scurry for cover, hoping they won't be seen. By then, however, it's too late. The birds have already spotted the danger and rarely come any closer.

"If you're shooting from a blind, stay down until the last second. Use the blind cover for its intended purpose — to keep you hidden. If no blind is available, find a thicket, some heavy brush, or even large rocks behind which you can conceal yourself.

"Protective clothing is important, too. A bright colored shirt and hat are a must for upland game or deer hunting where you are moving through woods or fields and want to make sure other hunters can see you. In waterfowl hunting, however, where you are in one place, waiting for birds to come to you, the standard tan hat and hunting coat are a must. They help to keep you hidden from the birds just as much as the blind or other cover."

"When you're after waterfowl, don't be a 'skybuster,'" says George Burger, Remington's manager of wildlife management.

"Remember, your favorite scattergun is not a 'Nike' rocket or even an antiaircraft gun. Even with magnum loads, you can't expect to get clean kills at anything over 50 or 60 yards. I know," continues Burger, "we all hear stories about ducks or geese that are killed at 70 or 80 yards. Once in a while, such things actually happen.

The shot carries that far and more, but beyond 60 yards, the pattern has opened up so much that it takes a few lucky pellets to knock down a bird. Long range shots, however, are far more apt to cripple than kill and good sportsmen avoid them.

"For a duck to be in range you should be able to clearly see the color of his body and head. As far as geese are concerned, they should look like a flight of jet bombers at tree top level. You should be able to see the white face markings on a Canada goose clearly, for example.

"So be a good sportsman and a good conservationist by learning to estimate distances accurately and only shooting at birds in range."

Remains of Sir Casement To Be Returned

LONDON (AP) — The remains of Sir Roger Casement, Irish revolutionary, soon may return to his homeland.

Casement lies beneath the walls of London's Pentonville Jail, where he was hanged by the British for treason during World War I.

Just before they took him to the gallows he said: "When they have done with me, don't let my bones lie in this dreadful place. Take me back to Ireland and let me lie there."

Since then successive Irish governments — and friends of Ireland in the British Parliament — have urged that Casement's dying wish be granted.

Thursday night in the House of Commons came a hint that the new Labor government may yield.

Laborite Emrys Hughes, a Welshman who holds the Irish view that Casement was martyred, asked Home Secretary Sir Frank Soskice to arrange for return of Casement's remains.

Soskice promised a statement before the next anniversary of the 1916 Easter Rebellion against British rule. He said: "I realize the strength of feeling on this matter."

Casement was hanged because he toured prison camps in Germany during World War I in an attempt to recruit an Irish legion to fight against the British. His attempt failed, and a German submarine landed him in Ireland in 1916.

Actress Says People Run After the Unobtainable

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "People run after the unobtainable," said Honor Blackman.

"If you don't appear to need anybody, you are more attractive. Women who don't seem to need men attract pursuit — and vice versa.

"The advantage is that if you appear to be unobtainable and are pursued — and have actually only been faking — you can then unload whatever real needs you have on the poor unsuspecting creature you let catch you."

This kernel of romantic wisdom comes from one of Britain's best known actresses, who is blonde, blue-eyed, an expert at judo and doesn't mind at all admitting that she is 37.

She soon will be well-known in America as the result of winning the coveted role of Miss Galore — sometimes called "Kitty" by her friends — the heroine in the latest James Bond spy thriller. Miss Galore is the leader of a band of criminal lady pilots whose jobs is to spray deadly gas on the defenders of the U.S. gold hoard at Ft. Knox.

Acting the tough tomboy is nothing new for her. For a couple of years she was the darling of English housewives as Cathy Gale, star of a television series.

Dressed in a black leather suit and big leather boots, Miss Blackman week after week threw one big male thug after another head over heels with her judo tricks. This was pretty heady stuff for British womenfolk, who generally are subservient to masculine authority. They got a vicarious thrill out of seeing men get their comeuppance from a woman.

"It was really kind of sick," said Miss Blackman, smiling, "but I must confess I got a bang out of it myself."

Honor appeared in some 30 films before running into what she refers to as her seven years of bad luck. That period resulted from stays in Spain and Canada when she lost touch with the flicker industry.

"It has been a long hard climb back," she said. "I almost had a nervous breakdown. That was the bad time.

"I went to a psychiatrist, and he helped. It takes a hell of a time to unscrew oneself after having been screwed up. But, brother, it's worth it. Having been sorted out, it's fun to have positive feelings about life again."

Her parents were Cockneys, and she was London-born too.

"My dad was a civil servant," she said. "Mother worked —she put bows on bottles of scent."

Gifted with a friendly, amiable nature, despite her judo skills, Honor speaks with a cultured accent, but easily and freely mixes English and American slang.

What does she like?

"Men, avocado pears, Shakespeare's sonnets, Spanish guitar music, children, Georgian houses, English squares and New York lights."

Her dislikes?

"Intolerance, rudeness, untidiness and dirt, screechy people and organ music. I also can't bear people who are closed up for the night — who have shut minds. They're plain dim."

Miss Blackman isn't dim at all. She's as bright as a daffodil.

Expanse of Golden Circle Parks Sought

PAGE, Ariz. (UPI)—Highway officials in four states today were studying possible expansion of the "Golden Circle" project designed to link 40 parks and monuments in Utah and northern Arizona.

The Four-State Highway Commissioners Association, which represents highway commissions in Utah, Arizona, Colorado and New Mexico as well as several federal groups, agreed to the study Wednesday.

The "Golden Circle" project was devised by the Utah Highway Commission with Utah Highway 95 as the backbone.

Expansion plans would include additions of parks and roads in Colorado and New Mexico to the route.

State and federal representatives are to make studies of the proposed enlargement within their respective organizations before the association meets again.

Purpose of the group, which has held only three meetings since its recent formation, is to promote roads, parks and national monuments through the four-state area.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — President Johnson, once the flush subsided from his big election victory, has tended more and more to hole up with national problems. He has appeared disinterested in keeping in the public eye.

Does this mean that the post-election Johnson has decided on a new Presidential style? This can be doubted. LBJ's style has always been natural, never cultivated, and it may be expected to remain so.

Nevertheless, he has given the impression of more solemnity. Some have referred to the change as amounting to humility. Whatever it is, the flamfoyant, hand-grabbing, compulsive-talking Johnson of the election campaign has become a man immersed in the problems of office.

This is a good sign. It suggests that Johnson has not let his huge popular vote go to his head. Instead, he conveys the impression that he has had thrust upon him a role of national leader which will require all his political ingenuity to fulfill, a humbling prospect in itself.

This seems the fairest estimate of the reason for the President's low key, but most industrious, working activities. The same work pattern can be expected until the new Congress meets in January. Much of the time he plans to spend tackling world and domestic problems in the seclusion of his Texas ranch. This is a much better hideaway than the White House, which has a sounding board that operates even if the President doesn't pound it.

For a man of Johnson's temperament this deliberate move into the wings would not appear to be in character. But some of his associates point out that LBJ thinks he has now convincingly established his identity or image.

JOHNSON'S RETREAT FROM CENTER STAGE

He sought to do this first when he took over the White House a year ago. As an activist Chief Executive from the start, he was determined to establish his own Presidential identity. He did this to his own satisfaction when Congress responded to his legislative demands.

The people's response was all that was required. It came in the Nov. 3 election. Now he ineeds only to protect his public image by deeds.

There is a time and place for everything, and Johnson probably figured this was the most propitious time to retreat from center stage. There was the realization that the country was pretty well fed up with politics and politicians. People generally could feel indebted to him for no longer trying to hog the limelight.

There also could be considerable sympathy and understanding, for it has been evident since the election that Johnson is wrestling with the toughest sort of problems.

LONELY SEARCH FOR THE RIGHT ANSWERS

The nature of these is such that the hard decisions must come from the President's lonely search for the right answers. Once arrived at, partisan controversy is certain, despite Johnson's predilection for pushing the "unity" and "consensus" themes.

He must make a most critical decision on the war in Viet Nam. The choice has narrowed to acceleration, with American troop commitments, or a neutrality "arrangement."

The big domestic problem involves fiscal policy. It is now fast becoming clear that the Administration cannot propose that Congress expand welfare-type legislation involved in the Great Society concept and still hold the budget below $100 billion. So, Johnson must decide which comes first, the conservative fiscal policy he has supported or a start on the Great Society, to which he inclines with most emotion.

What the President has learned while doing his homework since the election is that spending programs enacted by the last Congress, largely at his behest, almost eliminate the chance of holding spending under $100 billion in the next fiscal year.

WHERE IS THE MONEY COMING FROM?

For example, because of new laws almost $500 million more than in the present fiscal year must be allocated for mental health programs and aid to medical education. And the Welfare Department, under Secretary Anthony Celebrezze, is going to require an additional $1 billion simply to carry out legislative mandates of the last Congress.

Where, then, is the money to be found for the big aid-to-education program that Johnson considers first on his Great Society agenda? This program, as spelled out by the President himself, would call for first year spending for school construction and scholarships of at least $1 billion.

These key determinations on the direction of fiscal and foreign policy must be made within the next few weeks. Their significance was emphasized by Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz after he conferred with the President last Saturday at the LBJ ranch.

"The next 60 days," Wirtz said, "will be the most important in recent history, in my belief."

This should be sufficient to explain why the President is acting as if the burden of his big job was all-encompassing. He must make, within definite time limits, two most fateful decisions.

Chicago Bears' coach George Halas has compiled a record of 300 wins, 120 losses and 20 ties since organizing the club in 1920.

LBJ Promises Frugal Budget, More Projects

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson said Thursday he will try to keep the federal budget from growing as fast as the nation's economy.

But he said that a frugal budget should not be a stagnant one without room for new programs "to meet the aspirations of the American people."

"With a continuing drive for economy and efficiency, we can keep government budgets under control so that they grow no more rapidly — and may grow less rapidly — then the economy," the President said.

He discussed fiscal matters in a speech prepared for delivery to the Committee for Economic Development. (CED)

It was Johnson's first major address since his landslide reelection earlier this month. The CED is a group of 200 leading businessmen and educators.

This year's budget is expected to total $97.2 billion. Johnson has let it be known that he wants to keep federal spending under $100 billion next year.

Some critics have argued that an increase of less than $3 billion in the budget would not be enough to keep pace with increased needs of the growing nation.

Johnson's answer to these critics was as follows:

"To meet the demands of a society rapidly growing in population, wealth and complexity, we are spending more for education, vocational training and retraining, more for hospitals, medical research and public health — and more to fight poverty — than ever before in our history."

Love Continues Trip For Selling Colorado

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Colorado Gov. John Love and his "Sell Colorado" ambassadors visited plants in the Bay Area today in a final attempt to attract industry to their state.

At a luncheon Wednesday before several West Coast manufacturers and businessmen, Love explained he was not trying to lure business away from California.

"But we do hope that you will consider Colorado in your expansion planning," Love said.

The business officials got a literal taste of Colorado at the luncheon. They were served Colorado sirloin steaks. They also were given Colorado carnations, Denver-minted silver dollars and shale cuff links as souvenirs of the state.

Love said oil shale reserves in Colorado "stir the imagination to a greater degree than any other single factor in the future of the state's mining and petroleum industries... technological advancements suggest that production of oil from shale can be competitive with conventional petroleum products."

An estimated 22 billion pieces of advertising, primarily third-class mail, went through the mails in the nation last year.

DERMATITIS FROM VARIOUS IRRITANTS

Contact dermatitis refers to the eruption caused by something the individual touches or which touches him. In some instances the substance is an irritant, such as a strong alkali, acid, or solvent. This origin is obvious as a rule because the skin becomes red, inflamed, or blistered soon after contact.

A second type is an allergic reaction. Several hours or days may elapse before the outbreak appears. The preferred sites are exposed areas of the skin—the neck, face, hands, forearms, and legs. The hairy region of the scalp seldom is involved and dermatitis on the face is likely to stop within half an inch of the hairline.

The palms of the hands escape and the outbreak is likely to begin in areas that may not be rinsed thoroughly, such as the upper eyelids, the surface under rings, and the webs of the fingers and toes.

It is not always easy to find the culprit. When the possibilities are known, the patient makes a better sleuth than his physician because he is with himself day in and day out. A diffuse outbreak on head, neck, or eyelids generally stems from an irritant in the air (sprays, volatile material, pollen).

More localized eruptions follow the application of soap, face cream, and other cosmetics. Sensitivity to garters, soiled hat bands, dentrifices, fur pieces, wristwatches, and antiperspirants may be responsible. Lesions usually occur in area where the products are used or worn. Sometimes the agent is transferred to the face by the hands. Nail polish and plants are good examples.

Now and then, a product used for decades turns out to be the offender. It may be difficult to convince the victim until a patch test is done. A small amount of a dilute solution of the suspected material is placed on the skin; when allergy exists, redness and itching appear within 24 to 48 hours.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

NERVES AND SURGERY

Mrs. H. S. writes: If I had my infected gall bladder removed, would my nervousness decrease?

REPLY

Yes, if the organ is diseased and aggravating your emotional problem. On the other hand, nervousness complicates the diagnosis because abdominal distress and indigestion may stem from psychic upsets. In such circumstances, removal of the gall bladder would not bring relief of nervous pain.

SLUSH THERAPY

D. C. writes: What are the advantages and disadvantages of the slush treatment of acne?

REPLY

This is an old remedy in which the acne lesions are frozen with carbon dioxide snow. The skin turns red and peels in time. The only advantage is that the skin peels but numerous ointments that do the same are available at less expense.

ANYONE CAN GET IT

W. S. writes: Is it possible for a man of 61, whose blood pressure and weight are below normal, to develop angina pectoris?

REPLY

Yes. Angina is more likely to develop in the overweight and those with hypertension. But the opposite does not make an individual immune to heart disease.

DEFICIENT DIET

A. B. writes: Do you know anything about a blood disease that is cured by eating watermelon (and nothing else)?

REPLY

Watermelonseed anemia or watermelonhemoglobinemia.

Sleepwalking Scene Played By Leslie Caron

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Viewers who tuned in Thursday night to CBS may have been surprised — well, shocked is more like it — to find pretty little dancing Leslie Caron playing the sleepwalking scene in "Macbeth."

If they were shopping around the dial earlier, they may have happened upon Maurice Evans, the eminent Shakespearean actor, playing a warlock, which is a male witch, in ABC's comedy "Bewitched."

That's the way things are these days in television. You just can't depend on people to stick to their public images. It's been that way ever since Milton Berle stopped telling jokes to play unhappy dramatic characters.

Miss Caron, of course, was just doing the Macbeth bit as a gag on "An Hour with Robert Goulet," a very curious variety special.

It started with a sketch about a backstage conference on what kind of a show to build around the singer. In real life, they never did come to a decision because it was a hodge-podge of formal production numbers, a couple of adlibbed interviews with Goulet, some tapes made during his appearances in night clubs and on the Ed Sullivan Show as well as some other songs.

Evans, a most distinguished performer, didn't have much to do on "Bewitched." Most of the acting on that show anyway is done by the special effects department of the studio. They make people disappear in a burst of flame or a cloud of smoke. Inanimate objects fly around madly. And according to the ratings, the public loves every minute of it.

Evans, however, was most attractive as he snarled and snorted at Elizabeth Montgomery, his daughter in the show, and stood by looking haughty as vases shattered and books flew around the room.

ABC's "Les Crane Show," only two weeks old, has already parted company with its original producer and director. A new team will carry the ball — presumably into controversial areas. The late evening conversation show premiered to high ratings, but they have since dropped off sharply.

Jackie Gleason, who has been on a nostalgic kick in his opening monologues all this season, apparently is getting bored with trying to remember the good old days. Saturday night, according to a CBS bulletin, he'll deal with "the subject of advertising." He better be funny.

Duchess of Windsor Undergoes Surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — The Duchess of Windsor is in New York's Hospital for Special Surgery, where she underwent a minor operation on her right foot.

A hospital spokesman described the operation as "a small surgical procedure," but gave no details.

The spokesman said she is expected to return to her apartment in the Waldorf Towers within a few days.

Paper Cranes Sent To Caroline, John

TOKYO (AP) — Ten thousand paper cranes are on their way from Tokyo to Caroline and John F. Kennedy Jr. in New York.

The Cranes were shipped today by Taeko Matsuyama and Reiko Sato, 17-year-old high school girls in Nagano Prefecture of north central Japan. They started making the cranes last June, and have devoted almost all their spare time to the work.

The girls said they hope the cranes wolud be a good Christmas present for Caroline and John.

An estimated $100 million is being spent on hair coloring in the U.S. this year.

K-Mart to Aid Local Economy, Official Says

tising and in addition merchandising values that will bring outsiders into the region and make regular customers of them."

"This influx of new buyers in the region will result in increased business for all merchants," Cunningham added.

The president, tracing the growth of the Kresge Co., from its variety store status of the past 60 years, told his listeners that the discount store of today is but an extension of the Woolworth type of stores that proved so successful during the first part of the century.

"Realizing that our economy was undergoing explosive changes, especially in the great suburban movement, we began to place our stores in shopping centers," Cunningham said.

"At first we looked down our nose at the discount store operation but soon discovered the concept was sound.

"Discount stores initially were shoddy in appearance and often situated in undesirable locations but we soon discovered their competition was a formitable factor.

"At that point we decided to present a better discount store to meet the competition of the older types and soon became involved in an $80 million commitment for 33 new stores before we had the first one built.

"The gamble, if you can call it such, has exceeded our fondest expectations," Cunningham continued.

"As of October the annual business volume of all but two of 70 stores has shown an increased higher percentage each succeeding month. The total increase in sales of the 36 stores opened for a year in October shows an amazing increase of 35 per cent.

Cunningham gave the bulk of the credit for the company's success to an increasing awareness of the public to the value of the store's merchandise. He also mentioned that organization plays a vital role in the continued increase of business. "Our managers, like James Porter of our local store, are proven managers, executives and merchants and have the desire to establish their store as the friendliest one in the community," he added.

Locally, Mayor Harry Hoth welcomed the Kresge Co. to the community. He also welcomed the Northwest Land Development Co., owners of the K-mart building at 2510 Airport Rd., in College, gave the luncheon inmaking the company a part of the Pikes Peak region.

Robert Knous, lieutenant governor of the state, extended greetings to the company on behalf of Colorado. Knous stated that Colorado is the fifth fastest growing state in the United States and that the Colorado Springs area leads the state in this respect.

The Very Reverend Father Ryan S. J., president of Regis College, gave the lunchein invocation and W. S. O'Brien, executive of the Kresge real estate and development branch emceed the event.

Full Shutdown Seen in Ford Auto Production

men laid off, Ford has been employing only about half its total work force this week.

The company has blamed nine United Auto Workers local plant strikes that began Nov. 6 for the layoffs. The strikes had been over local agreements supplementing the national Ford-UAW agreement which was reached Sept. 18.

Agreements have been reached at all but three of the nine plants.

One plant still on strike is the key parts plant in Sterling Township, Mich. The other two are car and truck assembly factories in Wayne, Mich.

M. M. Cummins, Ford labor relations director, said Thursday the effects of the three strikes would be sufficient to halt all Ford production by next week.

Later, a Ford spokesman said the expected closing tonight of the Miltipas, Calif., plant would end all car production.

Top level negotiations aimed at settling the Sterling Township strike were scheduled to resume today. Cummins and Ken Bannon, director of the UAW Ford department, met Thursday in a first attempt.

Jury Picked; Trial Settled Out of Court

Immediately after jury selection in District Court Thursday for a $16,000 civil suit the matter was settled out of court. No details were available.

The action, involving an alleged case of assault and battery was brought by James W. Heiser, 1605 Happiness Dr. against Gene Carper, Fountain.

Heiser alleged he received an eye injury and other injuries and disfigurement described as "permanently disabling" when struck by Carper at the Round Up Cafe, Fountain, April 26.

As a result of the alleged attack the plaintiff claimed he was made "sick, sore, nervous and disabled."

In his answer, Carper stated that the injuries inflicted upon Heiser were in defense of another person, Paul Tamlin, who suffers from a disability which made him "highly susceptible" to any head injuries.

Carper also said he used no more force than was reasonably necessary to repel the attack.

Judge David W. Enoch was on the bench.

Man Stuns His Wife Booked in County Jail

A 32-year old man who slammed one of his children against the wall, stunned his wife with his fist and threatened to burn his entire family up was booked into County Jail Thursday, the sheriff's office said.

Harold Martinez, 323 W. Vermijo St., had a complaint signed against him by his wife, Katherine, alledeging assault and battery.

According to Deputy Sheriff Bob Newman, Martinez knocked his wife to the ground with his fist as he "was mad at her for she was trying to protect the children."

Justice Office to Collect $178 Million in Fines

Fascell subcommittee is that during the five-year period 1958 wrote off as uncollectable almost as much as U.S. attorneys collected — $91.871 millions as against $95.5 million.

Attorneys general during this period were Republican William Rogers and Democrat Robert Kennedy.

Capping the revelation of this giant $91 million write-off of fines and judgments, Comptroller General Joseph Campbell informed the House investigators that his auditors had been unable to determine whether that was proper. The probers had asked him to dig into the matter.

Campbell explained no comprehensive judgment could be made because "no records were available."

Following are highlights of this report to the subcommittee:

"We attempted to review and analyze information supporting the $91.8 million in adjustments but were devised by a departmental official that the adjustments were made by employes who were familiar with the circumstances, and that there were no records available which would show in detail the basis for the adjustments.

"Accordingly, we were unable to evaluate the adequacy of the adjustments made by the department, but do recognize a need for significant adjustments for potential losses."

Other important disclosured by the Fascell committee are:

An estimated $300,000 in fines levied against U.S. Communists under the Smith Act are still uncollected.

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, late chairman of the U.S. Communist Party, owed the government more than $5,000 in fines at the time of her recent death in Moscow. Although pleading inability to pay, she was able to make several trips to Russia.

More than 50,000 unpaid fines and judgments levied by federal courts in New York City are unpaid.

Blame for this sorry backstage situation is charged by the House probers to both the Justice Department and the U.S. attorneys. Says the subcommittee:

"Data on uncollectible fines is available in the files of the 92 U.S. attorneys; however, it had never been requested by the Justice Department until March 1964, after the subcommittee began its investigation. . .The department's records do not disclose the specific basis on which the $91,871,455 in deductions for uncollectibility were made.

"No division or branch of the Justice Department nas, or exercises, over all responsibility for judghent collections. U. S. attorneys have responsibility for judgment collections except in those cases in which the litigating divisions retained collecting responsibility. After the subcommittee's investigation was started, the Civil Division established a collection unit comprising collection specialists."

Other members of the subcommittee are Representatives Torbert McDonald, D-Mass., Cornelius Gallagher, D-N. J., John Anderson, R-Ill., and Robert McClory, R-Ill.

BUDDING AUTHORS

Lawrence O'Brien and Kenneth O'Donnell, two White House staff hold-overs of the late President Kennedy, are weighing an alluring offer to jointly write a book about him. O'Brien and O'Donnell were on Kennedy's staff from the day he began his congressional career as a member of the House. In the White House O'Brien was chief of Congressional liaison; O'Donnell, appointments secretary. During the recent campaign, they held important posts in the Democratic National Committee. If they take the $100,000 book offer, they will give up their government jobs to devote full time to it. . .Pennsylvania Democratic insiders are putting out word that Representative Herman Toll, D-Philadelphia, probably will resign next year if his health does not improve. He suffered a stroke early this year from which he hasn't recovered. Re-elected for a fourth term in the Johnson landslide, Toll, member of the influential House Judiciary Committee, is said to be doubtful whether his health will permit carrying a full load in Washington. If he does quit, Frank Smith, Philadelphia Democratic leader who piled up a 720,000 majority for the President, is considered a virtual successor to Toll. As such, Smith would be following in the footsteps of his late predecessor Representative William Green, whose seat is now held his 26-year-old son.

Paper Strike In Detroit Is Being Settled

been holding back an end to the strike. The walkout has cut Detroit off from its regular daily papers since July 13 when the pressmen and the affiliated Plate and Paperhandlers Local 10 walked out over new contract terms.

The lone obstacle to agreement on a new pressmen's contract was how many men should man new eight-unit presses at the News, an afternoon paper. This had been a major issue from the start of the strike and was the only issue during the last two weeks. The plate handiers ratified a contract agreement a week and a half ago.

The union insisted on a basic crew of 16 men to man the new presses while management held out for a crew of 15 men. Base wages were never a strike issue.

There was no official announcement on the compromise. But reliable sources said it was for a 12-month period during which both sides would study the question. After nine months, the union will have the option of accepting the 15 men or submitting the issue to binding arbitration. Arbitration would be completed within the remaining three months.

Neither the publishers nor their representative in joint contract bargaining, the Detroit Newspaper Publishers Association, would say when the papers would begin printing again if the pressmen ratify the agreement.

Other provisions of a proposed contract were worked out some time ago. These, included in the contract were worked out some time ago. These, included in the package for which the plate handlers settled, called for a wage increase, a pension package and clauses on job security and other provisions. Pressmen have been paid approximately $140 weekly for a 37½-hour work week and the handlers about $120.

The strike will be the longest union shutdown of a metropolitan American city newspaper. The longest previous strike was at Cleveland where the Cleveland Plain Dealer and the Cleveland Press were struck for 129 days. That walkout ended April 7, 1963.

McNamara Says Fighting Ability Not Impaired

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara is of the firm opinion that the closing of hundreds of military installations, great and small, will not diminish the fighting ability of the armed forces.

Over the past four years 574 U.S. military bases around the world—the great majority of them in this country—have been closed or their activities sharply cut back. Thursday, he tacked another 95 to the list.

These bases "have outlived their usefulness for military missions," are obsolete and unnecessary, the Pentagon chief says in explaining his program. By closing them, he says, "we can achieve economies and at the same time increase our combat effectiveness and our military power."

In announcing the latest cutback, McNamara referred to three categories of bases directly related to operations of the armed forces—shipyards, bomber bases and missile launching sites—and told why he thought changing conditions and new tactics and technology had rendered them obsolete and surplus.

New and better missiles are replacing the first models, rushed into firing position in the initial frantic race to match and exceed Soviet missile strength.

The liquid-fueled, surface-based Atlas and Titan I ICBMs are being shelved and their launching sites closed because of the "very sizable inventory" of improved Titan II and Minuteman missiles.

The Air Force has about 650 Minuteman missiles in launching silos, eventually may build this to about 1,000.

The Defense Department has been cutting back the number of older B47 medium bombers for some years, with their missions taken over by the somewhat more recent B52 heavies, of which the Air Force has about 630. So the bases from which the B47s operated are no longer needed. And more B52s are being assigned to fewer bases.

The Pentagon strategic warfare experts claim that the nuclear firepower that can be delivered by the B52 fleet more than offsets the original combination of B47s and B52s.

McNamara and the special board he created to make a study decided that the present operating fleet of about 860 Navy ships could be repaired and maintained and new ships built with fewer government-owned, high-cost yards. Therefore, they picked two big yards to be closed, two others to be merged. These, combined with private yard facilities, are considered adequate for the Navy's operations and shipbuilding programs.

The cutback in shipyards reflects essentially McNamara's drive for efficiency and economy rather than a belief that the day of warships is waning.

McNamara and the Navy have reiterated repeatedly the belief that one of the nation's best strategic deterrent systems exists in the Navy's new Polaris submarine force. The missile-launching submarines are rated virtually invulnerable to detection. On station today are 18 of these sihps, with 23 more to come.

The attack carriers, turning over the primary strategic mission to the Polaris submarines, continue to hold a high role in limited war tactical operations, along with the cruisers and destroyers protecting them and the supply and maintenance craft keeping them at sea.

Changing styles of warfare also put another group of installations into the obsolete or surplus list.

City Planners Okay Annexation Of 1,016 Acres

tion request. It was for making a portion of a 50 acre tract south of Hancock extended east and South Circle Drive PIP (Planned Industrial Park). On this request and another for PRD (Planned Residential Development) for a 21.15 acre tract north of Fountain Boulevard and east of Circle Drive, Commissioner Larry Ochs pointed out the two zones were not yet in existence.

How, he asked, could a person get a building permit on land zoned with a zone not yet approved?

Other commissioners disagreed and the two zone changes were approved, subject to final approval of the new zone classifications.

In other discussion, Ochs pointed out there should be some way of getting committee reports of the CPC to petitioners before their requests are considered. Numerous persons appearing before the CPC Thursday said they had not seen the committee reports. In some cases, this caused slight delays in the lengthy meeting.

The most spirited protests to a zoning change was for two requests by Everett Conover for 1702-1802 Eagleview Dr. and 1703-1807 Prairie Rd. The first request was to make this property R-5 multi-family residential zoning. The CPC approved R-3 zoning instead.

Then, on the same property, the CPC approved R-5H multi-family high rise zoning to permit construction of a 205-person capacity high rise apartment building.

District Attorney-elect Robert Russel was among persons in the area protesting the change. They said this would increase the population density and traffic.

The R-5H was turned down by the CPC Oct. 15. Then City Council Nov. 10 heard the request by appeal. There was a four to four tie vote then and Council voted to refer the matter back to the City Planning Commission for further study.

City Planning Commission recommendations are always sent to City Council for consideration.

350 Attend Dedication of Madison School

he asked. "It is, because it belongs to the community." Doherty went on to say that a school building itself is nothing. "It's the people of the community who give it life and vitality," he stated.

A point of interest was brought up about the school's namesake, James Madison. Doherty drew a parallel between President Madison's authoriship of the United States Constitution and the new school's street address, 4120 Constitution Ave.

The Superintendent promised a broad, comprehensive, but balanced program in the new education facility. He said if this plan wasn't adhered to, disaster would follow.

Wilbur S. Marshall, president of the District 11 Board of Education, opened his remarks with a look at Colorado Springs' growth. Fifteen years ago, the schools of the city housed 8,000 pupils. Now 26,000 students are in city classrooms.

According to the Chamber of Commerce, Colorado Springs is the fifth fastest growing city in the U.S.

Marshall went on to say that this rapid growth is a challenge to the Board of Education. He praised the board members for their devotion to duty and strong beliefs in education.

Despite its growth, this city has fewer double sessions and overcrowded classrooms than many other communities, he pointed out. "For this, we owe our vote of thanks to the school board and administrative staff," he said.

Recalling to memory the local schools' winning of a national physical education award two years ago, Marshall talked of the well rounded education children are receiving in city schools.

"Schools have become more than the three R's," he said. "I take off my hat to those who have supported this school system."

The first president of the James Madison School PTA, Mrs. Harriette Small, was the program's final speaker.

She talked of what members of the PTA could do to aid the school system and about what programs had already been planned for some of this year's meetings.

James Madison's PTA will be concentrating, this year, on education policies in District 11. She brought up the fact, however, that in order to do the job right the new school's PTA must have more members.

Mrs. Small also thanked members of the Longfellow and Mark Twain PTAs for gifts of $50 each to the newest of the district's PTAs.

Mrs. Maurine Ehrlich directed the James Madison School Chorus in two musical selections to close the dedication program.

A tour of the new facility, with its adjustable desks, wall-size blackboards and spacious corridors, was then conducted by the school staff.

Some 360 pupils are presently attending the Madison School, which has a capacity of 750. Twelve teachers are employed, with Principal Redding and the school's secretary rounding out the staff.

The James Madison School has classes ranging from kindergarten to grade six.

Dr. Ivy Says He Wants to Face Accusers

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, a former university official and an ardent promoter of Krebiozen as a cancer treatment, says he wants an early trial so he can face his accusers.

Dr. Ivy, 71, internationally known physiologist, and three other persons pleaded innocent Wednesday to a 49-count federal indictment charging them with mail fraud, conspiracy, mislabeling and making false statements about Krebiozen.

"This is a new and interesting experience," Ivy said after the arraignment in U. S. District Court.

Trial was set to begin Jan. 11, and the court allowed the four defendants until Dec. 21 to file motions.

"It is not the first time that a scientist or a benefactor of mankind has suffered indignities for standing up to his convictions," Ivy told newsmen.

"I have evidence to prove that Krebiozen is a worthwhile drug in the treatment of cancer," he said. "I have reports from a thousand doctors showing its benefits on patients hopelessly afflicted with cancer."

Dr. Ivy, now a professor of biochemistry at Roosevelt University, said he has no immediate plans other than continuing to work in his laboratory.

"Why should I leave? I am anxious to have an honestly conducted, scientific test of Krebiozen, and maybe I will conduct one in court."

George T. Davis of San Francisco, one of Ivy's lawyers, said the trial probably would last two months and expressed satisfaction at the January trial date.

"That's the way we want it," Davis said. "Dr. Ivy wants these questions settled as soon as possible. He wants to face his accusers."

World's Largest Suspension Bridge to Open

NEW YORK (AP) — The newest engineering marvel — the 4,260-foot Verrazano-Narrows Bridge, world's largest and heaviest single suspension span — opens to traffic Saturday, linking Staten Island with Brooklyn.

Ground-breaking ceremonies for the new bridge — its main center span is 60 feet longer than the main span of San Francisco's Golden Gate — were held Aug. 13, 1959. The bridge cost $350 million to build, is nearly three miles long, has two traffic levels of six lanes each, and can be seen at sea on a clear day from 40 miles out.

Omaha Bribery Charges Probed By Grand Jury

two women and one man for alternates.

The allegations of John B. Coleman, Chicago investment man, made public Sept. 25, were that bribes were paid and others offered in connection with a $1 million housing project Coleman planned in Omaha.

The World-Herald quoted Coleman as saying Mayor James J. Dworak had agreed to a $25,000 "campaign contribution" and had said he would not veto a rezoning ordinance required for the project.

Dworak said he never had any intention of accepting any check but had "played along" with the bribe offer in an attempt to get information on which legal action could be based. The report also said bribes were offered to City Councilmen Ernest Adams and Stephen P. Novak and Carville R. Buttner, member of the City Planning Board. All denied any wrong doing.

Custodian Slated for Kennedy Papers

BOSTON (AP) — David Powers, a close friend and one-time aide to John F. Kennedy, will be named custodian of the late president's personal papers and memorabilia, says the Boston Globe.

The newspaper said Thursday that Powers will be on the staff of the $10 million Kennedy Memorial Library to be built near Harvard University.

The Globe also said that Prof. Richard Neustadt of Columbia University would head the library's teaching institute. Neustadt is author of "Presidential Power," an analysis of the executive power structure in the federal government.

More Protests Than Praise Heard in Cutback of Bases

shared McNamara's view that "this inescapable change can be turned to the economic benefit of your community as well as the nation."

Among the protests was applause.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., wired McNamara his congratulations: "This has been greatly needed for years. You are the first man to have the courage to do it."

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., also lauded McNamara's courage, expressed his pleasure that "we are doing more than talking about economy in government" and noted: "Naturally, I am pleased that none of Connecticut's military bases was affected."

'Dependent on Government Too Long,' She Says

NEW YORK (AP) — "I've been married five months and just bought my house. Plans? Right now, I can't even think straight."

"It's a heart breaker. After putting so many years in, now I got to go out and find another job."

"We have been dependent on the government too long."

These were some of the reactions after the Pentagon announced that military installations employing more than 63,000 civilian workers would be closed sooner or later.

The man with the new house, William Nyce, is a boiler fireman with 14 years of service at Olmsted Air Force Base in Middletown, Pa.

Raymon Vermilyea, a 13-year packer at the same base, was bitter, saying: "I felt (President) Johnson had something up his sleeve, and this was it. Why didn't we get the word before the election?"

The fears of Joseph Mattaliano, a worker at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, about hunting another job were echoed by a fellow worker, Vincent Martucci, who had worked at the Brooklyn base 21 years.

"I'm too young to retire," he said, "and probably too old to get another job easily."

The belief that his community had depended on the federal government too long was expressed by Mayor Timothy Conners of Portsmouth, N.H., where the nation's oldest shipyard is to be closed over a 10-year period.

"We in Portsmouth must take stock and go to work to get new industry in the area," he said.

a.m., said the body was still warm, but that there was no pulse and no movement of the chest to indicate that the woman was still breathing.

Anderson said there was a trail of blood from the corpse to a bedroom just off the living room. A check of the bedroom revealed signs of a fight, and a large patch of blood was on the bed board. Blood flecks were also on the bed covers and on the west wall of the bedroom, according to Sgt. Anderson. A spot of blood was also observed on the ceiling next to the light fixture, Anderson said.

Anderson described the body as being dressed in slacks and a blouse, bare-footed, with the blouse pulled up about six inches from the waist.

According to District Attorney Patrick Hinton, police were holding James D. Torry, 27, of Ft. Carson in the City Jail for investigation of murder. Hinton said that charges will be filed later today.

Jury Launches Police Probe in Charlotte, N.C.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The Mecklenburg grand jury Thursday indicted Police Chief John S. Hord and seven other Charlotte policemen on 37 counts, climaxing a five-month investigation of the city's police charges involved wilful neglect of duty.

There were 14 charges against the 63-year-old Hord, six against his chief of detectives, Capt. W A. McCall, and six against a former detective, Bernie Stogner.

Hord, chief since May 1961, was charged on two counts of failing to keep proper supervision of his department of about 350 men, and in two cases with failing to arrest two women whom the grand jury believed operated houses of prostitution.

Mayor Stan R. Brookshire, vacationing in Pinehurst, said he was "awfully sorry" to hear of the charges against Hord and suggested that City Council suspend the chief while he is under investigation.

Hord said Thursday, "I don't know what I'll do about these. I'll check on it in the morning when it's made official."

The grand jury issued a 38th indictment which charged Helen Virginia House Kuhlman, a former Charlotte resident, with murder. Mrs. Kuhlman was believed to be the mother of a child born in Charlotte April 9, 1963, and found dead in an icebox two days later. A coroner ruled infanticide — murder of a young child.

McCall was charged with failure to arrest Mrs. Kuhlman. He was also charged with failure to discharge his duties properly in a gasoline theft case last January. The case set off the probe of the department.

Hord was also charged with failing to do his duty in the gasoline theft case, with failure to investigate a series of breakins at a local department store, and with failure to cite Stogner before the Civil Service Commission.

The other police officers charged with Earl Fesperman, one count; Jack Fesperman, four counts; Fred A. Teeter, three counts; W. Fred Hucks, two counts, and T. W. Williams, one count.

One Missile Lost in Shot, Army Reports

RANGE, N.M. (AP) — The Army has lost one of its missiles in the snows of southern Colorado, about 400 miles north of the sands of southern New Mexico where it was supposed to impact.

The Pershing artillery missile was fired from Hueco range near Ft. Bliss, Tex. Thursday afternoon on a planned short trip into New Mexico's desert missile range.

With one loud blast and a series of short ones the missile slammed into the snow-covered area around Creede in south-central Colorado about 75 miles northeast of Durango.

"We thought it was a dynamite blast at the Homestake Mine northwest of Creede," said Sheriff Harry L. Larson, at Creede.

The miners also heard the blast and some thought it might have been a sonic boom.

The Army was sending a team into the area today to retrieve the errant missile.

"It would be foolish to go out looking for anything in that area where we think the sound came from," Sheriff Larson said. "There's three or four feet of snow in the mountains and it's cold."

However, an Army spokesman said at White Sands this morning that an effort would be made to find the $1 million missile and an investigation to determine the cause of the accident is under way.

The missile was launched in the fourth firing in a two-day series in a training exercise. The first three firings were successful.

The missile did not carry any explosives, the White Sands spokesman said.

It was not the first time southern Colorado received a missile that was on its way to New Mexico.

Javits Urges Removal of GOP Chieftains

PARIS (UPI)—Sen Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., called on the Republican party rank and file today to remove the present party leadership because it is not representative of GOP members' thinking.

Without naming Sen. Barry Goldwater and his supporters, Javits denounced present GOP leaders in a speech to the American Club of Paris as being personally responsible for the crushing party defeat in the Nov. 3 presidential election.

Javits, a progressive Republican, told the lunch gathering that the issue facing his party now was "whether by force of the party's statutes it is to be left in the hands of those who subjected it to the hazards which brought it so close to the brink of destruction or whether, it being very much alive, it is now to be managed by those who can built it to a winning health and vigor."

Florence Council Slates Refunding of Water Bonds

The Florence city council, meeting Monday night at the municipal building, signed an agreement with Stern V. Brothers & Company of Denver to refund the city's water bonds which has been estimated to save the city approximately $15,000.

The agreement was signed by Mayor Charles Cristelli and City Clerk Beth Wells for Florence and by Bernard Tierney for the investment bankers.

Tierney explained that as a result of refunding $278,000 general obligation water bonds into $271,000 general obligation refunding water bonds his company is prepared to save the city $8,567 in interest on the new issue plus $7,000 in principal on the new issue or about $17,400. The agreement calls for a minimum savings of $15,000.

The investment company would be paid a fee of $12 per $1,000 bond issued with the fee coming from the proceeds of the refunding bond issue and not from the city's general fund.

In other business Monday night, the council opened bids on the new fire truck chassis from Vendetti Chevrolet Company, Inc., and Luke's Motor Company of Florence. However, the council tabled the bids for futher study since two members of the council, Roy Palmer and Leonard Lloyd were absent and could not take part in a bid evaluation. Palmer is chairman of the fire department committee which will have to take the bids under study.

City Attorney Erick Roberts reported on the proposal presented by the Southern Colorado Power company for a new 25-year city franchise. The Power company has indicated it will increase its payment to the city from 2 to 3 per cent, or a hike of about $1,500 per year.

The council voted to take the franchise under study since the present Power company franchise has until 1969 to expire.

City Manager Frank Carochi reported about 1½ inches of snow on the Newlin Creek watershed, and announced that work is being done on the Newlin intake as part of the system improvement program.

The city has hired Lloyd Beer to move about 2,000 yards of earth in the intake area where 120 feet of perforated pipe has been installed under some six feet of gravel as a gathering agent. Carochi explained that the line also is serving as a primary filter for seepage water on Newlin Creek.

The manager further reported that city streets are being cleared of excess gravel following recent seal-coat operations, and all underground pipes have been installed at Pioneer Park except those around the band stand and the playground areas.

City Attorney Roberts reported that legal procedures are still under way to condemn the Soriento property at Third and Santa Fe.

Girl Chews on Cord; Electrocuted

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A 2-year-old girl chewed through an electric cord and was electrocuted Thursday.

She was Janice Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Ross.

The mother said Janice and another daughter, Juwanna, 5, were playing in an upstairs bedroom when Juwanna ran to her mother and said Janice had the cord in her mouth. Mrs. Ross found the child lying on the floor with the cord still in her mouth.

'Great Society' Not Idle Dream, Johnson Says

By FRANK CORMIER

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, returning to his college of 34 years ago, defended his "great society" concept today as realistic and attainable. He said it is "not an idle dream or vague utopia."

Johnson was making a sentimental journey to San Marcos, a city of 13,000 some 50 miles southeast of his ranch near Johnson City.

It was at San Marcos State Teachers College in 1930 that Johnson received a bachelor of science degree. Now he was returning to that campus, renamed Southwest Texas State College, to help inaugurate a new college president, James H. McCrocklin.

In his text, Johnson set forth two broad goals for the "great society" program he hopes will become the central theme of his administration's efforts:

1. "We must strike down the barriers which limit the hopes and the achievements of some of our people." He mentioned racial discrimination, poverty and lack of educational opportunities.

2. "We must move to enlarge the horizons of all Americans." He said "the ultimate test of any society is the quality of the men and women it produces and the quality of the life they are permitted to lead."

Johnson said the great society "is concrete goals and will require specific programs. Even as we meet, some of these programs are being prepared for my review."

Without getting specific, he mentioned forthcoming administration proposals to help make cities "a decent place to live," to preserve the beauty of the land and to "make it possible for every child to receive an education of the highest quality to the limit of his ability—no matter how poor he is, or where he lives."

While limiting his catalogue of proposals to these, Johnson promised the over-all program "will do all these things and more, much more."

Before leaving Washington Thursday to spend the Thanksgiving season at his hill country ranch, Johnson told leaders of the Committee for Economic Development, a private economic research group: "I do not interpret the election as a mandate to any reckless, novel, dangerous or unique course."

Earlier, in a White House ceremony at which he accepted a bronze bust of the late President John F. Kennedy, Johnson called on the nation to observe the anniversary of his predecessor's assassination with a rededication "to the pursuit of those ideals of human dignity in which he believed."

The President and Mrs. Johnson plan to attend a memorial service Sunday in Austin.

At a Cabinet meeting Thursday, Johnson said federal officials must formulate "imaginative new ideas and programs."

And, he said, he wanted to impress upon Cabinet officers "the equally essential need to be bold in reforming existing programs" — in pruning away outdated, unneeded and wasteful programs.

Johnson told the Cabinet he plans "a continuing talent search, in all professions and in all parts of the country" to find good people for government service.

Between now and the Jan. 20 inauguration ceremonies, he announced, John Macy, Civil Service Commission chairman, will be working out of a White House office supervising the talent hunt.

Shark Repellants Work in Reverse, Too

WASHINGTON (AP) — The only trouble with most advertised shark repellants is that those which work at all are as likely to attract as to shoo off the dread killers of the sea.

This warning by the "shark research panel" of U.S. Navy and civilian scientists was coupled with a proposal that the government do something about it by creating a federal agency to crack down on claims that "border on the fraudulent."

Dr. Perry Gilbert of Cornell University told of one electrical device, advertised to wipe out the shark menace, which repelled "lemon" sharks but actually attracted "tiger" sharks.

The panel agreed Thursday on recommending only one type of repellant. It is a Navy developed dye (nigrocin) that produces in the water a kind of smoke screen that confuses sharks and conceals their potential victims.

Economy Continues Its Steady Climb

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — In the year since bullets cut short the life of President John F. Kennedy the economy has continued its steady climb with only occasional bobbles and with misgivings mostly proving temporary.

Policies under way a year ago are by and large still in effect, or increasingly taking effect. And many of 1963's problems are still with us too.

Most individuals and business firms are more prosperous today. Most can count more money at hand — in wages or profits. Most seem more confident that still higher heights lie ahead.

And yet in more sober moments most realise that the same trouble spots and uncertainties still preach caution: unemployment too high for complacency and still largely unyielding; foreign challenges only partly predictable and changing from day to day; the outflow of dollars reduced a bit but a constant worry to the guardians of the dollar's value and reputation; labor-management disputes able to clip the economys growth, however temporarily, and posing new uncertainties of their own.

But the figures in Americans' balance book show how today's prosperity compares with its already high level a year ago.

In the fall of 1963 the dollar value of the nation's output of goods and services was running at an annual rate of $587.2 billion. Today the figure is $628.4 billion, with still higher totals forecast.

Personal income was running at an annual rate of $466.3 billion a year ago. It has continued to climb and today is put at $498.6 billion.

Those extra dollars, some $32 billion, are going for many things. They are pushing up personal spending, from $377.4 billion a year ago to around $494.5 billion now. And that means that retail sales are riding high above last year, that the service industries are taking in far more money, that recreation spending soars.

Savings institutions are getting many of the dollars, too. Today's annual rate is estimated at $32.2 billion being saved by individuals, against $27 billion a year ago.

The prosperity has sent industrial production climbing almost steadily, with the rare dips charged to temporary factors such as strikes. The government's index shows the output of the nation's factories, mines and utilities 131.7 per cent of the 1957-59 average, up from 126.1 a year ago.

The government statistics reflect the growth in the economy over the last year. One of several mirrors of confidence can be found in the stock market. A year ago the Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks stood just above 742.

The rise of nearly 150 points since then doesn't measure the prosperity, but it does show how many Americans are evaluating it.

Clock Watcher Is Paid by His Employer

By STAN BENJAMIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Charles Magee is a clock-watcher and his boss knows it — and pays him to do it.

Magee looks after 85 old-fashioned wind-up clocks for the Pennsylvania Railroad — and they'd better be right.

The clocks are the master time-setters for the railroad in the Philadelphia metropolitan area. Train crews, passengers and traffic controllers count on them.

It's up to Magee to wind them, with a few quick turns of a hand crack and, if necessary, fix them.

One clock in the 30th Street Station, Philadelphia's main PRR station, controls 32 other clocks — the ones on public view — throughout the station.

A similar system at the smaller North Philadelphia Station gave Magee, 35, the only real trouble of his four years as clock watcher. It had a four-hour self-winding mechanism that broke down.

"I hand-wound it and went to New York for parts," Magee relates. "I hoped I could get back before it ran down, but I didn't make it. All of those clocks stopped without notice for more than an hour. It caused some inconvenience."

Magee and his wife, Catherine, are residents of suburban Glenolden, and the parents of two daughters and three sons, from 1 to 8 years old.

Magee leaves his clock-watching habits at work.

"I don't take my work home with me," he said.

"But don't talk to my wife today," he added, "our alarm clock is broken."

Lions Club Members Hear Address on Turkey

"The people of Turkey are extremely poor, extremely friendly, and extremely progressive," said Col. George H. De Chow Thursday to the Cheyenne Mountain Lions Club.

De Chow was speaking on "Turkey and the NATO Alliance" at the meeting at Dott's Chicken Shack. He was chief of U. S. operations in Turkey under Maj. Gen. Herrick for almost two years.

When Mustafa Kemal Ataturk took over the country in 1922-23, 99 per cent of the population was illiterate. Today, less than 50 per cent of the people are illiterate, he said.

Despite the fact that Kemal was a dictator, his rule led to a government with a "democratic image," construction on the British model, he said. There are two houses, an elected president, and a prime minister, now Inonou.

The Turks, he said, are "firmly our friends." "I know of no country and people who have benefitted from and appreciated as much what we are doing," De Chow said.

Turkey has the largest ground army in Europe and the largest in NATO, except for the U. S., said De Chow. The ordinary Turkish soldier receives $1.11 per month, and Gen. Sunay, who commands the armed forces, received $198 per month, the same salary received by the prime minister.

Turkey borders on six nations. Her common front with the Soviet Union is 180 miles long.

Slides shown by De Chow included scenes from the capital, Ankara, which has a population of 750,000; the interior of a Catholic church in Mardin, where Christians were allowed to continue to worship because they supported Kemal; sheepherding in Antolia (sheep raising is a major industry in Turkey); and members of the large police gendarme force.

Although the Soviet Union would like Turkey to move "left to neutralism," De Chow said, the Turks have a great friendship for us. The question today is whether we can continue to afford putting money into programs to keep Turkey on our side. Although her force is not modern, Turkey anchors the the southern end of NATO, the speaker said. The Turks have shown great respect for the equipment with which we have provided them, he added. Our aid to Turkey now is largely industrial and technical, he said.

After the meeting, De Chow explained that the changed role of NATO has resulted from the presence of nuclear deterrents. In limited wars, however, a ground force is essential. Turkey has three times beat the Russians, he added.

Paul Homan, first vice-president, was in charge of the meeting, in the absence of Fred B. Porter, president. Ralph Raines, second vice-president, introduced the speaker. Plans were discussed for the pancake supper, to be held Feb. 4 at the Cheyenne Mountain High School cafetorium.

James Hamilton, Bill Buth, James Buttery, and Alex Campbell were honored for their committee work in the 1964 United Fund Drive, in which the club exceeded its quota, collecting $1451.

A ceremony was held for new members Kelyel Askew, 605 Crestridge; Warren B. Strait, 1301 La Veta Way; Don Bymaster, 13 1st St., Broadmoor; and Manuel Perret, 1810 Hercules. Dr. Lawrence H. Buck, past district governor, officiated.

Secretary Donald C. Phillips mentioned the completion of the club project of placing street signs in the Cheyenne Canyon-Ivywild area. Signs placed total 110, he said. The project has taken several years. Also mentioned were contributions of Lions Clubs of the Colorado Springs area to the Deaf and Blind School.

Audience Is Happy Over Symphony, Rise Stevens

By JOHN FETLER
ARTS CRTIIC

One of the most important accomplishments of the Colorado Springs Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Walter Eisenberg is the enthusiasm which it generates among the audience, as was in evidence again Thursday night at Palmer High, when Rise Stevens, Metropolitan opera star, appeared as guest artist. And, the creation of this kind of enthusiasm is necessary for the further development of the symphony at the prime instrument for singers in the judicious use Springs. For, a cultural institution can be built and developed only when it has a wide base of support, as the Symphony now has.

Perhaps the most characteristic that can be said about the voice of Rise Stevens is the richness and mellowness of the vocal production. Hers is a vocal instrument of delightful flexibility, and even though she is a soprano, her lower range shows special richness, and the power of her voice is in good evidence as well as it rises over the orchestra. The interesting thing, from a vocal point of view, is that Rise Stevens, who is a veteran of the Metropolitan, is a superb example for singers in the judciious use of vocal resources, and even from one hearing any vocal student could learn an extraordinary wealth of vocal knowledge.

The best thing about the symphony orchestra under the direction of Eisenberg is that it never stands still, but continues to develop. This is not as simple as it sounds, for there is always the factor of old grooves to consider in the case of any kind of production. It is clear, from listening to the symphony, that Eisenberg's vision is constantly fixed on the development of the qualities of the orchestra, which is the basic requirement for any cultural development, and which is made possible by the leader's insistence that continuously developing quality must always come first. This is as true in the great metropolitan centers of culture as it is in cities like Colorado Springs. The wide base of support by the audience gives the orchestra the possibility to perform, but it is the conductor who makes it all worthwhile.

As to Eisenberg, his insistence on a disciplined orchestra is admirable, and especially Thursday night, in several of the musical works, he achieved fine musical effects especially with the strings, although the woodwinds, also, came in for some beautiful effects. The orchestral numbers included works by Weber, Alwyn, Enesco and De Falla, and to our mind the Elzabethan Dances by Alwyn, as well as the always engrossing Rumanian Rhapsody by Enesco had special precision and orchestral expression.

We saw in the program that the Symphony Orchestra Association is continuing its notices for the Endowment Fund and bequests, and this is of great importance, because it helps to build a solid economic future for the Colorado Springs Symphony.

RESEARCH — Wasson High students Phyllis Hurst, John Fussell, and Jack Jenkins are assisting a research project with research project relating to the relating to the possible effects of ultrasound on humans. The Wasson researchers are using hampsters for the experiment which will continue for three generations of hampsters.

Wasson Students Conduct Ultrasound Experiments

An experimental project now underway at Wasson High School is expected to produce evidence that will help determine whether medical patients exposed to ultrasound suffer any harmful effects.

Ultrasound has proven to be a valuable tool in the practice of medicine, and scientists believe it does not have harmful effects on humans. This belief, however, has not yet been confirmed the results of any research.

Ultrasound operates on a principle similar to that of sonar, the Navy's submarine detection device. When sound waves strike an object, the waves are reflected and then interpreted.

Doctors are using ultrasound to locate tumors in the brain and foreign objects in the eye. They can also use the sound waves to measure a fetus with extreme accuracy to learn if a normal birth is possible.

Donald Scoby, biology teacher, and Jack Jenkins, Phyllis Hurst, and John Fussell, Wasson students, are conducting their research on animals to see how they might be affected by ultrasound.

They are using two pair of unrelated hampsters. Five days a week they expose the animals for 10 minutes to sound waves with a frequency of 400 cycles, the average intensity used on humans. The animals will receive the same daily exposure both before conception and during gestation.

Scoby and his students weigh and carefully observe the hampsters daily to note any evidence of short range effects. They will continue the experiment over three generations of hampsters to learn if exposure to ultrasound has any long range effects.

Throughout the experiment the male and female lines will be kept separate to eliminate the possibility of effects resulting from inbreeding. This will also make it possible to trace the definite male and female lineage.

The research project had its inception when Scoby attended the convention of the Colorado Science Teachers Association last March in Denver. A tour of the University of Colorado Medical Center, including a stop in the ultrasound laboratory, was part of the convention program and gave Scoby the idea for the project.

Later he presented his project plans to Dr. Joseph H. Holmes, a Medical Center research director, who encouraged him to go ahead with the project. Dr. Holmes also arranged with Physionic Laboratories of Longmont to loan a transducer for the experiment.

Without this piece of equipment the project would not have been feasible as a transducer is necessary to convert an electrical impulse into a sound wave. There still remained, however, a need for other equipment. The District 11 Board of Education and industrial arts teachers and students cooperated in making the additional equipment available.

The Board granted a small sum of money to finance the project, and students in electronics, metals, and woodworking classes designed and built the apparatus. Teachers who directed the work were Gary Clark, Earl Gentry, and Dan Johns.

By June, Scoby and the student researchers hope to have experimental data of real value in better understanding the possible effects of exposure to ultrasound.

District 3 Board Plans For High School Addition

The board of School District 3 (Security-Widefield) Thursday night gave approval to Supt. Richard Taylor to continue planning for a high school addition for vocational shops and additional laboratories.

Only three of the five members were present — Chairman Clarence Foster, and members Ted Forde and Thomas Slack.

Taylor told the board that he had requested a grant of $750,000 from the federal government to help finance the building program and had hopes of getting about $746,000.

There are two immediate needs for building money, Taylor said.

The addition is needed for the high school which now has an enrollment of 765 with the 11th and 10th grades each having more students than the 12th grade.

Watson Junior High now has 500 students in it and that is about 50 more than it was built for. Taylor said that the building should be expended to a capacity of about 750.

The vocational shops and laboratories addition would cost a minimum of $300,000, Taylor estimated.

He pointed out that other school buildings in the district also will need additions on them soon.

Total enrollment in the district this week was 5,329, with 3,537 in the elementary schools, 1,027 in junior high school and the 765 in high school.

Taylor also explained that the district has reached the size where it now would be economical to erect a warehouse.

He pointed out that the district now buys commodities such as potatoes by the truckload for its hot lunch program, and that it can save a considerable amount of money buying in large quantities.

However, to take advantage of the large-quantity bargains, the district needs a storage area.

Such an area also would be needed for other year-around obligations of the district. It would serve as a service area for the repair of school vehicle and other equipment and storage of maintenance supplies.

He estimated that a building satisfactory for the district would cost less than $35,000.

Taylor reported that the addition to the Pinello grade school is expected to be finished before the Dec. 23 deadline set when the construction contract was let to the Hayes Construction Co.

He said that children probably will go to school in the addition before Christmas vacation.

Taylor reported that discussions have been taking place in the Pikes Peak area by school administrators looking toward creating a municipal league for high school competition. Such a league would put the Widefield Gladiator athletic teams in competition with Wasson, Palmer and Billy Mitchell teams.

He said that the preliminary planning looked toward the 1966-67 school year for such an eventuality.

The superintendent reported that the district has suffered a financial loss of more than $500 this year from break-ins by people who always wreck a door or two as they enter the school buildings at night to try to steal money.

"We tried to ease the problem by leaving the doors unlocked on the principal's offices, but that didn't work. They jimmied the doors anyhow and wrecked them," Taylor said.

"We haven't lost much money — our greatest loss is in the destruction of property," he explained.

Taylor said he had discussed various burglar alarm arrangements with firms selling them, and also had investigated the cost of night watchmen.

"The insurance companies recommend floor safes for money, but we need something that will stop this damage to our school property," he added.

The board instructed Taylor to investigate further the burglar alarm systems and their costs, and also to see if such an alarm system could be wired to the fire department main building. The Security Volunteer Fire Department has men on duty all hours at the building, it was reported.

Taylor reported that the assessed valuation of the school district boomed over the $15 million mark for 1964, going up by $1,394,960.

The valuation for 1964 is $15,844,070, compared to the 1963 valuation of $15,450,110.

In a report on the bond debt of the district Taylor showed the board a statement that showed:

Bonds outstanding this month — $2,166,000.

Bonding capacity at this time (15 per cent of the assessed valuation) — $2,167,516.

Capacity of bonding remaining (the amount of unsold bonds that could be sold at this time) — $1,516.

As of Jan. 1, this will be the picture, he said:

Bonds outstanding will be the same, $2,166,000.

Bonding capacity will have gone up to $2,376,000.

Capacity for additional bonding will have gone up to $210,610.

Bonds approved in a vote within the district but not sold — $175,000.

Taylor also told the board that the district is at this time issuing warrants in the office of the county treasurer to meet its payroll.

"We hope to get some state funds soon so that we can retire the warrants and not pay any more interest on them than we have to," he explained.

Stick-Up Yields $25 in Cash

A stick-up at the Sno-White Cleaners Thursday resulted in a take of approximately $25 for the lone robber, police reported.

Maylene V. Rose, a clerk at the store at 1701 N. Weber St., told police a man came in at approximately 5:45 p.m. Thursday and asked if the manager was there. When she replied no, the man pulled a gun from his belt and told her to give him all the bills from the cash register. She did so and the man left by the front door and walked south.

Miss Rose told police she believed she could identify the man if she saw him again. She described him as a Mexican male, approximately 25 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, and wearing a gray sweater and blue jeans.

Driver Fined On Two City Traffic Counts

Ingeborg Conway, 35, 901 Hallam, appeared before Judge Asher in Municipal Court Thursday to plead guilty to charges of disobeying a stop sign and causing damage to city property. She was fined $15 on the stop sign charge, but the other matter was continued until Dec. 3, so that Mrs. Conway's insurance company could be notified.

James Reid Gilbert, 18, 2425 W. Kiowa St. was found guilty

John Jay Jarvis, 76, 116 N. 23rd St. pleaded guilty to a charge of disobeying a traffic signal, and subsequently striking a pedestrian. Jarvis claimed the sun had blinded him momentarily causing him to think that the pedestrian had halted to allow him to pass. Judge Asher warned him that next time he should "give the pedestrian the benefit of the doubt, fined him $25 and suspended his right to drive in the city for 60 days.

In other action, Ralph Emilio, 30, 2222 E. Boulder St. did not appear to be tried for speeding, and was consequently found guilty and fined $20.

George Lahr, 19, 736 W. Colorado Ave., failed to appear on a speeding violation and forfeited $50 bond.

Melvin Stanback, 45, 412 S. Cedar St. pleaded guilty to reckless and careless driving, under the influence of alcohol, which caused him to strike another vehicle. Judge Asher dismissed the careless charge, and found him guilty of reckless driving for which he was fined $100 and had his right to drive suspended for 60 days. Judge Asher told Stanback he would suspend $25 of the fine on the condition that there be no further offenses, including the use of alcohol, and that he attend the traffic lecture in the City Auditorium on Dec. 16.

Florence Fans Plan Trek to Fruita Game

Florence high school students, faced by the long trek to Fruita this weekend, were nevertheless making plans to support their championship football team with ample supporters.

According to Principal Jack Brown, two of the large district school buses will be called upon to haul the band and pep squad to Fruita early Saturday morning in time for the game at 1:30 p.m. at Fruita.

A chartered Trailways bus will take the Huskie grid squad to Grand Junction Friday morning. The team, including 34 players, two student managers, and three coaches, will work out Friday afternoon at a field in Grand Junction prior to the state class AA semi-final contest with undefeated Fruita Saturday.

In addition to many fans who plan to drive to the game in private cars, John Verlengia, president of the Huskie Booster club, was attempting to arrange a chartered bus for local fans to make the trip early Saturday. Those wishing to go by chartered bus were signing up for the trip at the Malt Shop this week.

Should the underdog Florence team win their Saturday battle against Fruita, defeated by the Huskies 20-19 in a state playoff in 1957, the Huskies will play the championship game at Florence probably against Julesburg.

Limited Area Set to Cut Family Trees

For the first time in serveral years the U.S. Forest Service has agreed to open a limited area in the San Carlos district of the San Isabel National Forest to families wishing to cut their own Yule trees, according to Forest Ranger Walter Litwicki.

The Yule tree cutting has been set for the area near the Florence Municipal campground on the South Hardscrabble about 15 miles southwest of Florence, Litwicki said. The date has not been definitely set but will be either Nov. 28-29, or Dec. 5-6.

The $1 permits to cut the Yule trees will be on sale at the site of the cutting. A forest official will be at the site of official will be at the site to direct cutters to the proper area and distribute the permits.

A definite date for the cutting will be announced next week, Litwicki stated.

The forest in this area has been closed to Christmas tree cutting for the past few years because of an infestation of the spruce bud worm. However, the infestation has apparently been halted and the cutting will be permitted in a limited area.

A Beauty Hint

Margaret Merril advises that it is quite simple for every woman to promote an English countryside complexion. Her hint to gain a peaches-and-cream loveliness is to damp a cloth with cold water from your refrigerator and press it over your face for a few minutes once or twice a day. Then, to hold the good of the complexion-beautifying cold water smooth on a little tropical oil of olay. This oil is rather scarce and expensive but your drug store should be able to get you a small supply.

Fat Warms

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some plump humans may be overweight because of a special need for fat and therefore should not try to lose it, according to a Danish physician.

The explanation, Dr. Flemming Quaade of Copenhagen continued, lies in an abnormal thermo - regulatory activity whereby the body oxidizes substances other than fat to provide warmth. In such cases, according to a report on his work in "Medical World News," for protection against chill, the body depends on an insulating layer of fat which becomes vitally necessary.

Opening lead: Seven of ◇

When North overcalled West's opening club bid with one spade, South was determined to reach at least a game contract. His cue bid of two clubs is unconditionally forcing on partner and permits a more relaxed investigation subsequently. When South uncovered the fit in diamonds, he used Blackwood to investigate for a slam. If North had shown only one ace, there was always time to settle for the more modest project of a game in diamonds.

West chose to open the seven of diamonds against the slam bid. It may be observed that in the absence of this lead [or a spade opening which would be most unusual in light of the bidding] declarer's chores are greatly simplified, for he has sufficient time to ruff out his heart losers as well as to establish a spade discard by leading toward dummy's king of clubs. With the diamond opening, however, South is unable to complete all his washing without letting West in to play another trump.

South won the first diamond in his hand and led a club. West put up the ace and returned another diamond. Declarer was in again and he cashed the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart with North's remaining trump. The king of clubs was cashed on which declarer disposed of a spade, and then he ruffed himself in with a club.

South drew the last trump, cashed the king of hearts and then proceeded to run his remaining diamonds. This was the position as the last trump was led:

On the deuce of diamonds, West discarded the three of spades in order to preserve his protection in clubs. Dummy was now in position to part with the nine of clubs, and East was confronted with the hopeless task of guarding two suits. If he gave up a spade, North would take the last two tricks, for the ace would drop both the king and queen. East elected to discard the ten of hearts, however; this enabled South to score his 12th trick with the trey of hearts.

Housewives' Favorite Lauded by Males

Columnist Heloise Cruse, whose "Hints From Heloise" appears in The Gazette Telegraph, became the first woman writer to be awarded the "Silver Lady," top honor of the Banshees, all-male luncheon club of New York communications executives.

Nearly 500 Banshee members, celebrities and distinguished guests crowded the Sert Room of the Hotel Waldorf Astoria Tuesday to see the statuette presented to Heloise who had traveled up from her home in Arlington, Va., with her father and her husband Air Force Col. Marshall Cruse, for the event.

Arthur (Bugs) Baer, chief Banshee, made the presentation which cited Mrs. Cruse as the outstanding newspaper columnist of the year. It is the 18th time the annual award has been made.

As is their custom, the Banshees offered top Broadway and nightclub talent as entertainment at the luncheon in Heloise's honor.

Headlining was pianist-comedian Victor Borge; French song stylist Paulette, and The Bitter End Singers, a new sextet of young instrumentalist singers.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She's Sick'

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if you sent your grandson a $25 check for his 14th birthday, and his mother returned it with the following note:

"Dear Mother,

Haven't you heard of inflation? What will $25 buy a 14-year-old boy today? Apparently you need this worse than John does. — Love, Shirley"

Abby, this girl went to finishing school and is a college graduate. She and my son are considered socialites. They have a town house, a country home, a boat at Newport and go to Switzerland to ski! How would you handle this? —AMAZED

DEAR AMAZED: Even educated "socialites" fall victims to mental illness. No woman in her right mind could have written such a contemptible letter. I'd ask my son to watch her for other signs of emotional disturbance.

DEAR ABBY: My husband works in a large office. One of his co-workers (a married woman) picked him up one evening last week and they went to a "planning meeting" as he is on the committee for the annual office party. Yesterday a neighbor told me that another neighbor told her that she saw my husband sitting in a parked car two blocks from home, talking to a strange woman. She said the car lights were turned off, but she recognized my husband.

When I asked my husband about this, he said it was true, but that he and this woman were just talking. I asked why they turned off the lights and he said they thought it might "look bad." Do you think my husband is guilty of anything? — WORRIED WIFE

DEAR WORRIED: Yes. He's guilty of using poor judgment. But you have little to worry about. If he had been guilty of anything more serious, he wouldn't have been two blocks from home in a parked car.

DEAR ABBY: On my 18th birthday (last May) I accepted a diamond engagement ring from a boy I had been going with about three months. He is 24. We didn't set a date. Now I feel that I am not ready for marriage. I want to return the ring and date other boys and him, too, but he says if I return the ring he will go back to Texas where he came from. I still hold a deep feeling for him and don't want him to leave He says either I have to be engaged to him or we break off completely, as he will not date me while I am dating others. I am so mixed up I don't know what to do. He keeps telling me he "loves" me and he knows I "love" him. I'm not sure I even know what "love" is. Rush your answer to me, Abby, as I told him I would give him my decision on Friday. —MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED UP: Return the ring and tell the young man that it's not fair to him to wear his ring while you still want to date others. And in the future, do not accept a ring unless you intend it to stop your circulation.

DEAR ABBY: I am asking my landlady to write this for me because I am 89 years old and my hands shake. Please, Abby, put something in your column about the heartlessness of sending Great Grandma (at her own expense) to a warmer place, under the guise that it is "better" for her. Better to be deprived of all the familiar faces and places? The surroundings that held so many dear memories? I have been much colder here in Arizona than I ever was in Illinois. Not in my hands and feet, but in my heart. Thank you. — MISSING ILLINOIS

Record Crop

NEW YORK (UPI) — A taste for tomatoes led to a record production of 4,436,270 tons this year for processing into food products. This total is a nine per cent increase over last year, said Alfred A. Morici, general manager of a California tomato canning firm (Contadina division of Carnation Co.).

Down on Farm

WAUKEE, Iowa (UPI) — Frank Haberman has converted a part of his 190-acre farm into an outdoor recreation area for city folks who want to come down to the farm.

A nine-acre pond now covers land once planted in hay and corn. A windmill serves as a platform diving tower. And in a nearby barn, there's a snack bar where grain bins used to be and shower stalls where cows once contentedly chewed their cuds.

Easy Does It

CHICAGO (UPI) — A half-gallon plastic-coated milk carton that opens with a teartrip tape was introduced at the Dairy and Food Industrial Exposition here. After the tape is removed, the spout can be opened and resealed with pressure of fingers on either side of the spout.

Catholic Order Tells of Work In Africa

By JERRY EDGERTON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The man in flowing white robes showed the hippopotamus tooth and the carved African masks to the crowd of children.

He explained the work of the White Fathers of Africa and the satisfactions of the religious life.

His booth, with a background of photographs and statistics boasting of six million Roman Catholic converts in Africa, was one of the most popular at a recent exhibition explaining the diverse vocations of Catholic religious orders.

The purpose was to show young people some of the activities of priests, nuns and brothers and spur their interest in joining the orders.

The show was sponsored by the local chapter of the Serra Club, an international group of Catholic laymen. The club sponsors similar displays in other cities, shows films and provides speakers.

The atmosphere at the Louisville show was that of a trade fair, and no one was doing any hard-sell recruiting. Some 54 orders from 12 states were represented. Each booth had pamphlets and leaflets to give out.

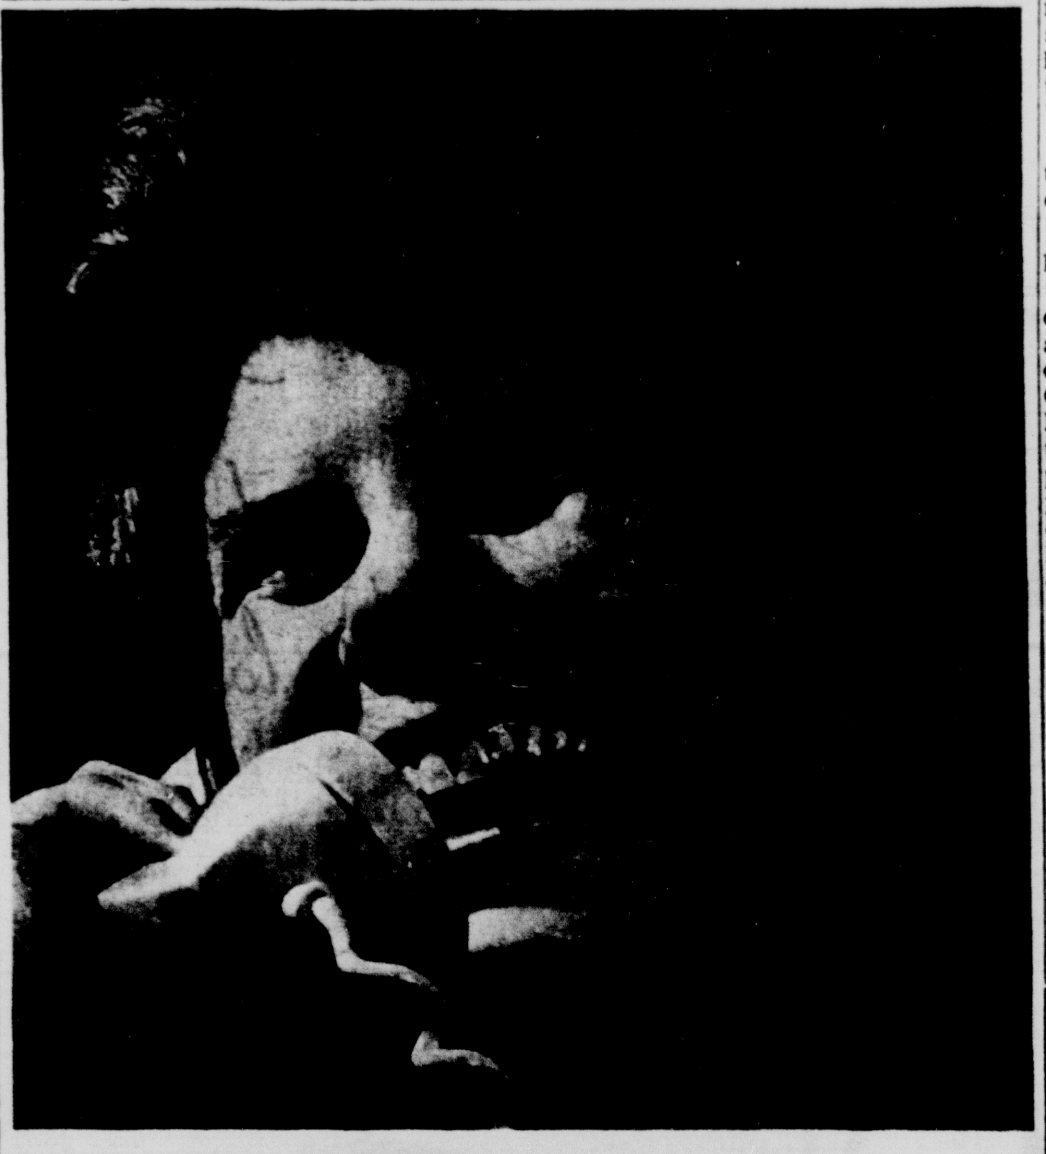
The emphasis seemed to be on demonstrating that the religious life is far from all somber and serious. Color slides at many booths showed brothers and students playing sports or having informal get-togethers. A popular feature was a hootenanny staged by nuns, brothers and seminarians which included a hand-clapping, sing-along rendition of "When the Saints Go Marching In."

The Our Lady of Grace Sisters staged a show with marionettes dressed as nuns.

A majority of exhibits put emphasis on "the of serving God."

Most of the men and women operating the booths have been assigned full time by their orders as "vocations officers." One such official was the Rev. Richard Wise of the Society of the Precious Blood. He explained he corresponds with any young men who inquire about entering the order, sends them literature and if they express continuing interest, eventually pays them a visit.

Approximately $19.6 billion were derived by federal, state and local governments from taxes on cars and trucks last year.



The feeling is mutual when you call Long Distance.

Pick up your phone and go visiting tonight!

School Support Tax Proposed in State

DENVER (UPI)— Delegates at the Colorado Farm Bureau's annual convention Wednesday urged state legislators to enact a state sales tax or state income tax to take some of the burden of public school support off property owners.

The Bureau also passed resolutions opposing federal aid to education and criticizing the U.S. Supreme Court for its mandate earlier this year ordering states to apportion their legislatures on a strict population basis.

In the resolution asking for a state sales or income tax, delegates said: "There is a tendency to turn to the property tax for additional revenue at all levels. Since ownership of property is not a guide to a person's ability to pay taxes, we recommend that sources other than the property tax be sought for additional revenue."

The 600 delegates urged state and local governments to co-operate in meeting the financial needs of schools and to prevent intervention by the federal government.

In criticizing the Supreme Court's ruling, the group said it favored action to reverse the decision.

BANK ROBBERS BUSY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bank robbers have been much busier this year than last, but their increase in booty has been smaller.

A report released this week by the American Bankers Association showed 296 successful bank holdups during the first six months of 1964, 60 more than in the first half of last year.

But the total take was only $1,605,000—a scant $25,000 increase over 1963.

Air Provides Opportunities For Business

By JESSE BOGUE

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ask the average citizen to name a few cases of air at work — aside from giving life to all—and he may get as far as its use to keep the tires up on his automobile, and then hesitate.

If he is an industrialist, he can cite many more: Its use for heating, cooling, preservation of some moisture-sensitive materials, even as a cushion, or as power in transportation of some materials.

David E. Walbert, executive vice president of the Midland-Ross Corp., Cleveland, notes that the hunt for ways to put air to work can be "as romantic as harnessing the atom," but that the appeal of air to industry is that it is a material that comes free. In some industrial uses it must, of course, be cleaned up and purified, and there are business enterprises who have built success on ways of doing this.

Other Applications Noted

Walbert cited recently a number of applications of air for industrial processes which have been developed by his company.

Its Ross engineering division found a way to use air to prevent metal from acquiring surface gouges when it was being treated at high temperatures.

It uses air to suspend or cushion continuous strips of metal as they move through a heated chamber; the metal does not touch any solid conveyor but moves along on jets of air, heated to temperatures of from 750 to 975 degrees Fahrenheit. The air jets are aimed in the direction the metal moves, and keep it running along. The heat dries the metal, such as pre-coated strip which requires this kind of treatment.

Air Treats Peat

The householder who doctors a sick or new lawn with peat benefits from the application of air to the material as it is being prepared for his outdoor exercise.

Moist peat is difficult to package, and the consumer doesn't want to pay for water in it. Midland Ross developed a suspension drier, which cushions the moist material on air while it dries.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP) —Scattered demand for blue chips brought the stock market back narrowly into plus territory early this afternoon.

The trend was a little higher among airlines, oils, utilities, office equipments and electrical equipments.

Trading was fairly active but the pace was below that of midweek when the list soared to new highs.

Many market wheelhorses were unchanged, however, and there was a wide scattering of small losses.

Bullish corporate news and a generally favorable background helped foster the slightly higher trend, but buying was selective and cautious.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 332.4 with industrials up .8, rails unchanged and utilities up .2.

The AP average was exactly at its historic closing high reached Wednesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.25 at 890.96, a little below its Wednesday peak.

The leading motors were all unchanged except Ford which lost a fraction. Most of the top steels were unchanged.

Aerospace defense issues were narrowly mixed in the wake of news of closing of air force bases.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were generally higher in quiet trading.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mixed.

'Penny' Stocks Have Sweet Smelling Home

By RICHARD L. GRAVES

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — A sweet-smelling stretch of the Jersey City waterfront within sight of Wall Street marks the symbolic end of the road for hundreds of American corporations.

About 150 feet from the wharves, in a bank building next to a perfume factory, is the firm of M.S. Wien & Co., Inc., dealers in the marked-down stocks of companies that have seen better days.

"Some of them are so low-priced we sell them for wallpaper," said Stephen S. Wien, vice president and a partner in the firm.

The Wien organization is one of a small group of dealers that trade in shares of companies that more often than not are the dead or dying casualties of dog-eat-dog corporate competition.

Some 13,100 companies have failed in 1964, many of them corporations.

"We make block bids for defunct securities," said Percy J. Wien, president and a founder of the Wien firm. In addition to buying up the derelict shares, Wien's firm also regularly trades some 350 issues of securities — many of them devalued — that range in price from a half-cent a share to $10 a share.

Sometimes near-dead issues revive, said Wien.

But if a defunct security is truly dead, the stock certificates are interred in a closet at the Wien firm — the wallpaper file.

To find buyers for their still-breathing securities, the Wiens — Stephen is Percy's son — and four other traders sit at a long, intricately wired table talking by telephone to other dealers. The Wiens trade only with brokers and financial institutions, except for an occasional wallpaper sale.

Wien said the demand for penny stocks is "due to their speculative assets." He said his firm has been catering to a demand for low-priced issues for 45 years.

Negro Leaders Shocked About Hoover Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro leaders Roy Wilkins and James Farmer have expressed shock at FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's statement that Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. is "the most notorious liar in the country."

Farmer, in a speech Thursday night at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., described King as "a man who has spoken more truths in the past 10 years than any other man." Farmer is head of the Congress of Racial Equality.

Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said in a news conference Thursday at Akron, Ohio, that "Millions of people have a high regard for Mr. King and I don't think Mr. Hoover's remarks are going to change that opinion."

Congo Troops Race North to Oust Red Rebels

By ROBIN MANNOCK

KINDU, the Congo (AP) — Congolese troops and their white mercenary leaders raced northward today toward rebel Stanleyville. There were no reports of rebel resistance.

Congolese army headquarters announced the advancing column, which left Kindu Thursday, had entered the Punia district 150 miles north of Kindu. They still had 180 road miles between them and Stanleyville.

En route they must cross the 300-yard-wide Lowa River at Yumbi. Normally, there is a motor launch for a ferry, but it was not known if it was in working order.

Radio Stanleyville broadcast a warning from rebel leader Christophe Gbenye that "any attack provoked by the Americans may end the stay of execution of Paul Carlson." Carlson, an American medical missionary, was sentenced to death as a spy but his execution was postponed until Monday.

The Congolese army's commander in chief, Gen. Joseph Mobutu, predicted in Kindu that his forces would take Stanleyville by next week.

Maj. Michael Hoare, a South African mercenary, moved out of Kindu Thursday with his 5th commando group and headed for Punia. A single unpaved road through the tropical rain forest is the only route north from Kindu to Stanleyville.

Premier Moise Tshombe's central government hopes the capture of Stanleyville will break the back of the rebel resistance and help unify the chaotic Congo.

Worker Is Businessman, His Wages Are His Prices

By SAM CAMPBELL

Every workingman is a businessman, and the more business-like he conducts his life, the more prosperous he will become.

His working capital is his time, his knowledge, his health, his tools, his credit, and his sales ability.

The workingman stands in relation to his employer as his emloyer stands in relation to his customers. Just as the successful manufacturer or the retailer strives to please customers by giving them what they ask for, so the successful workingman tries to fit his services to the requirements of the employer.

The more customers that the proprietor of a store has, the greater his independence. The workingman, as a rule, has only one employer, but if his knowledge including his skills is of such a description or diversity that he can sell them (that is, get a job) in many places, then his dependence on any one buyer (employer) is less.

The charge that a store proprietor makes for his goods is called "price." The charge that the workingman makes for his services is called "wage" or "salary." Both are remuneration. Both are aspects of the same thing.

When workingmen combine through strike and threat of strike to raise prices, they are accused of causing inflation. This accusation is false. In a managed economy such as ours, inflation is a product of government policy. Since wages and prices are the same, a rise in wages is no more inflation than if a grocer raised the price of bread.

The folly of raising the price of labor by means of strike and threat is not inflation, but rather self-defeat. Wages and prices being the same, a forceful pay increase is a forced price increase. The workingman gets more dollars for what he sells, but he pays more dollars for what he buys. Time lost in strike can never be recovered.

As the store proprietor has costs, so the workingman has costs. These are his home, his food, his clothing, his transportation, the schooling of his children, etc. A business owner is successful only if he developes the discipline to control costs. The same applies to the workingman.

Basically, cost control means doing without some things that you want. The nature of a human is to want something that he can't have. Cost control in a home depends to a major extent on the rapport between the wage-earner and his wife. She should understand that she and her mate are in the business of marketing his time and skills. He should apply salesmanship, personal example, and leadership to assure her that meeting the family needs at a comfortable level is foremost in his mind. The yearning to buy often is a sign of insecurity. She and he should set the cost level of the home at a point below income.

Not all the workingman's time is marketable. Almost certainly he faces periods of sickness, perhaps of disability, and inevitably of old age. To the extent that he and his wife have disciplined themselves to hold costs below income, they will be able to insure against these probabilities.

Just as products go out of style, so skills become outmoded. Self-interest behooves the workingman and the industrialist to keep abreast of the marketplace. If costs are controlled by each, both can diversify — the manufacturer by adding new product lines, the workingman by making investments and by gaining new knowledge. When total earning power depends either on a single product or on one life, the business is in a precarious condition.

As the workingman and his employes must combine efforts to achieve higher marketable skills or marketable products, they will accomplish more when they perceive that their problems are the same than if they deceive themselves into believe that their problems are different.

Law License Is Awarded Posthumously

WEST CHICAGO, Ill. (AP) — A crippled former Marine Corps pilot was admitted posthumously to the Illinois Bar Thursday, climaxing an 18-year story of courage and patience.

The admission of the late Donald D. Harries Jr. of Duluth, Minn., believed to be the first time a law license was awarded posthumously in Illinois, came a little more than one month after Harries died.

Harries, 43, was a quadriplegic since 1946. While attending law school he wrote papers for 10 years with a pencil clenched between his teeth in a hospital ward.

In 1946, Harries was at the University of Minnesota studying for a law degree. He fell while tumbling in a gymnasium and never again had the use of his arms or legs.

Harries was admitted to Hines Veterans Hospital where for almost seven years, he was virtually helpless. Then, gradually, he learned to write by holding a pencil between his teeth.

With encouragement from a Red Cross volunteer worker, Mignon Waring of West Chicago, Harries began studying law again. He enrolled at Loyola University of Chicago.

"There were 50 men in that ward at times," Mrs. Waring said. "It was very hard for him to study."

Studying was further complicated, she said, because Harries could not sit in his wheelchair too long.

In June 1963, he was granted a law degree from Loyola. Harriet passed the written Bar examination last September.

While waiting to hear if he would be admitted to the bar, Harries underwent a kidney operation, regarded as serious surgery for a quadriplegic. He appeared to be recovering after the operation, but suddenly his condition changed and he died on Oct. 14.

Harries' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Harries Sr. of Duluth, Thursday received their son's license to practice law from Chief Justice Ray I. Klingbiel of the Illinois Supreme Court in Springfield.

Welfare Workers Get Praise in Denver

DENVER (AP) — John E. Hill, Pueblo County commissioner, said today a dedicated welfare or social worker "does more in one day to combat communism than most of your so-called patriotic groups and Christian crusades will do in a million years."

Hill gave his views as a member of a panel at the 74th annual Colorado Conference of Social Welfare.

He said no matter what the cost of work and learn programs, it is still cheaper to train and educate unskilled workers than not to do it.

Student Wins Free Enterprise Essay Contest

The Free Enterprise Committee, a group recently formed in Colorado Springs for the purpose of carrying on the spirit of free business competition that has made our country great, will hold its initial banquet Saturday evening at the Chicken Shack.

At the 7 p.m. dinner, David L. Saurer, Wasson High student adjudged winner of the committee's recent essay contest to determine the best student essay on free enterprise, will read his essay, entitled "Americans be Proud."

Speaker for the evening will be Lt. Col. Charles H. Price, who will speak on the subject of the existing conditions of East and West Berlin.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag will lead by Orris H. Dott, chairman of the committee.

The invocation and bendiction will be offered by the Rev. George W. Otto, Broadmoor Community Church.

Saurer was born near Honolulu, Hawaii, to career Air Force officer Richard H. Saurer and Doloris S. Saurer. He has one sister, Linda Lee, a freshman at Washington Irving Junior High School.

Travels have taken him to Hawaii, Japan, and 39 of the United States, including eight years in Mississippi and two in New Mexico. He has lived in Colorado Springs for slightly over two years.

Saurer is a junior at Wasson High School, and holds honors in English, algebra, Spanish, shorthand, and chemistry.

He is also active in such extracurricular school activities as the Spanish club, the literary guild, and the debate forum. His hobbies include stamp and coin collecting, music, reading, and writing. He is a member of the Southern Baptist Church.

Col. Price, a native of Utah, was commissioned to the Air Corps as a flying cadet in 1935 and commissioned to the Air Force Reserve in 1942 and has since served in many countries throughout the world both during and after World War II.

During his tour of Germany he devoted much of his off-duty time to activities designed to improve German-American relationships.

CONTINENTAL'S NEW SILVER EAGLE—The new bus is 40 feet long, carries 46 passengers, is rest room equipped and affords all weather air conditioning. Passengers are seated eight feet above ground level and the wide panoramic tinted windows allow improved scenic viewing.

Continental Begins Silver Eagle Bus Service

Continental Trailways began new through-bus service between Denver and Grand Junction effective Nov. 16 using the bus system's modern Silver Eagle buses, according to an announcement by R. F. Berndt, Denver-based vice president of the company.

The Royal Gorge and Gunnison River route will serve passengers out of Denver to Colorado Springs and Pueblo, to Florence and then to Grand Junction via Canon City, Salida, Gunnison, Montrose and Olathe.

Berndt said, "This service will make direct connections in Grand Junction to Salt Lake City, Portland, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Also, passengers traveling from Grand Junction, Montrose, Gunnison, Salida, Canon City and Florence can make direct connections in Pueblo for Colorado Springs, Wichita, Oklahoma City, Dallas, St. Louis and all points east and south. Through-bus service means no change of bus or baggage from point of origin to destination."

He pointed out that many people are already familiar with Continental Trailways Silver Eagle buses and those who are not acquainted with this modern bus can expect a luxury traveling experience.

The bus is 40 feet long, carries 46 passengers, is rest room equipped and affords an all-weather air conditioning system. Passengers are seated 8 feet above ground level and the wide panoramic tinted windows allow unobstructed scenic viewing.

The foam rubber lounge chair seats can be adjusted to many different positions assuring the passenger complete riding comfort. Many other innovations on the bus make it the most modern bus on the highway today, according to highway transportation engineers.

Berndt stated that six of these new buses had been purchased for exclusive use along the new through-bus route.

Criss-Cross Directory Now In Distribution

Distribution was completed last week to subscribers to the 1964-65 issue of the Greater Colorado Springs Criss Cross-Cross Reference directory published by Cole's Directories.

Many important new features have been added to this year's issue to expand the value and benefits to Colorado Springs businessmen. Besides the usual street address and telephone number sections, it includes the following special features:

A. Trading zones and wealth ratings.
B. Rural Route Maps.
C. Main thoroughfare maps and street locations.
D. Zip Codes.
E. Age of listings.
F. New listings and new arrivals.
G. Government office section.
H. Office building directory.

Coverage in the directory is not only for Colorado Springs but includes:

Manitou Springs, Air Force Academy, Calhoun, Cascade, Cripple Creek, Divide, El Paso, Fountain, Monument, Palmer Lake, Rush, Victor, and Woodland Park.

The great growth of the Colorado Springs area is reflected in the total listings of approximately 50,200, which is a substantial increase over the 1963 issue.

Included are over 5,300 business listings and there are over 10,000 new listings and changes.

Labor Upheaval Looms in Steel Industry

A major labor upheaval is looming in the steel industry, Iron Age magazine reports.

The national metalworking weekly says this opinion is shared by many knowledgeable people in steel management as well as within the steel union. (United Steelworkers of America). They feel the upcoming negotiations will release the full effects of unrest in labor ranks already indicated in auto, coal and electrical industries.

Iron Age interprets events leading up to the challenge of union leadership of USWA president David J. McDonald as a

Unmistakably

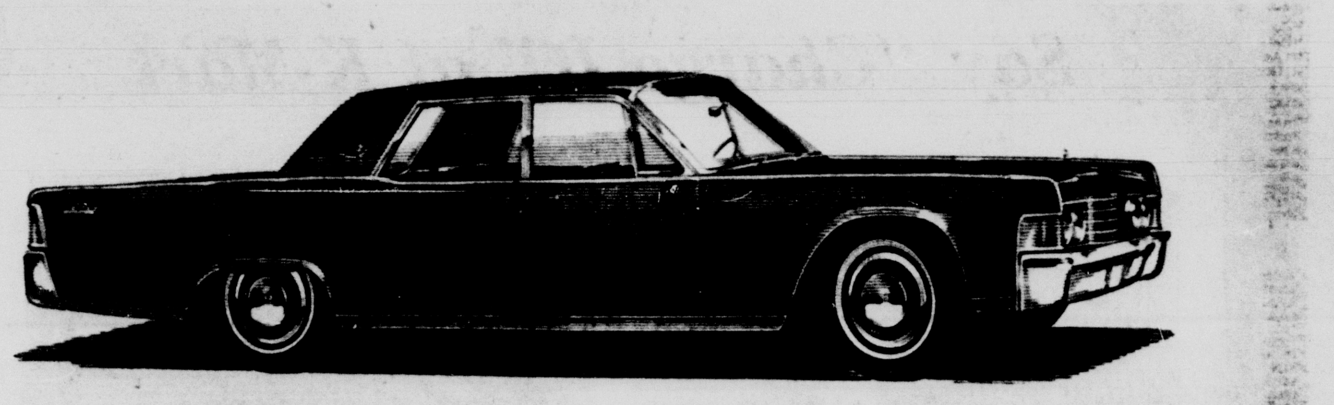
Lincoln
Continental.



Unmistakably a 1965 Lincoln Continental.

You don't have to read the hubcaps to know its name. Nor do you have to peer at the Registration to know its age. This one is obviously the new one. The 1965 edition.

And that is the genius of this latest Lincoln Continental. It manages to maintain the classic continuity and yet there are ample evidences of its contemporary vintage.

Expressions like the hood's slightly raised center panel; parking and turn lights in the front fenders' leading edges; the slightly recessed grille with its continuous horizontal bars... and so on around the coachwork. Inside and under the hood it's the same story: "Progressive Refinements" that keep pace with the present, while keeping faith with the past.

MAIL CONCERN

DENVER (UPI)— Denver mail officials said Wednesday that plans for the Christmas holiday mail rush in the Mile High City were swinging into high gear. U.S. Postmaster George A. Cavender said work actually was begun more than a month ago on how to handle the 43 million extra pieces of mail expected to go through the office. Cavender said 850 temporary employes would be hired and 249 more cars, trucks and trailers rented or borrowed to handle the increase.

RELIGIOUS 'REVIVAL' CALLED SOLID SIGN

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—"Despite all the critical and true judgments made upon the current 'revival of religion' in America, floods of people have recently been swept into our churches, and many, many of them have come on serious business."

So said the Rev. Dr. Harold M. Warehime, a theologian of Presbyterian Seminary, Louisville, at a National Convocation on the Church In Town and Country here. It was sponsored by the National Council of Churches.

He added, however, that the church can retain the vital participation of these people only if it deals forthrightly with the "experience of emptiness and other conditions which plague the hearts of modern man in an affluent, technology-dominated culture.

University Will Ponder Issue Of Politicking

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Regents of the University of California are about to tackle the thorny issue of whether to permit students to engage in politico-social action on-campus — and what to do if students are convicted for such activity off-campus.

'A small but aggressive minority of the more than 27,400 students has defied a long-standing rule against such action.

After several weeks of intermittent demonstrations, inquiries and committee recommendations, the regents are to take up the whole business Friday during their regular session.

Involved were suspensions of eight students — after some had collected money on campus for civil rights work in the Deep South — and the encirclement of a university police car for two days and nights to prevent jailing of a non-student for on-campus activities.

Another problem was the conviction earlier of some university students for sit-in demonstrations in San Francisco in support of more jobs for Negroes.

The regents face this question: Should they reaffirm the defied rule —that there shall be no solicitation of funds and no recruitment of members on campus for off-campus political purposes?

Freedom of speech is thus denied, the dissidents charge.

A faculty committee which investigated the complicated situation has recommended lifting the rule; but if a student's on-campus actions lead to off-campus conviction for a law violation, then he also would be subject to university action. That would be double jeopardy, the dissidents insist.

The dissidents have banded together some 18 off-campus political organizations under the name of the Free Speech Movement. They put their strength at about 3,000. Opponents say this figure is exaggerated.

Focal point of the dispute is a 26-foot strip of sidewalk at Sather Gate on the campus. Through the years student action there has violated the rules — but it had been tolerated.

On Sept. 21, the dean of students, Katherine Towle, dropped a bombshell by ordering enforcement of the no-politics rule.

There is confusion about precisely what brought the sudden enforcement. University President Clark Kerr said it simply was a built-up case of the Sather Gate area being "quite unregulated."

Everything came to a head Sept. 30. Eight students were suspended. There was a mass sit-in demonstration.

A non-student demonstrator was arrested and the police car taking him to jail was surrounded.

Demonstrators crushed in its top standing on it to make speeches.

Five hundred police were called in from outside. In the end there was a parley.

Agreement was reached not to prosecute the arrested demonstrator. A committee was set up to investigate.

Demonstrators claimed victory and again set up fund-collection tables. The investigating committee was dismissed.

One faculty committee sharply criticized the university for its handling of the eight suspensions. The students were wrong, the committee said, but had good intentions.

Some 200 graduate student teaching assistants joined the students.

Then, another faculty committee studied the entire matter and came up with a recommendation for a compromise solution.

Two Officials To Keynote Convention Here

Two prominent officials of the Rocky Mountain Cement Co., a subsidiary of the Martin-Marietta Corp., will keynote meetings of the Colorado Ready Mix Assocation fourth annual convention now convening at the Broadmoor.

C. E. Tennesson, Jr., vice president of marketing for the cement and lime division of the company, will speak today on the subject of pricing rules and regulations.

Kenneth B. Wolfe, director of industrial relations in the same division, will speak Saturday on "What you can and cannot do under the Civil Rights act in Colorado."

The company to which both men are connected is now in the process of constructing a $20 million plant on an 1,100 acre site between Boulder and Lyons. The company will soon open a Colorado Springs sales office with Dean A. McConnell, Denver, as sales representative for the region.

The Rocky Mountain Cement Company plant in Colorado has been described as one that will exert a major impact on the state's economy.

It will be highly automated and will not produce smoke, noise or dust in the Boulder area. A new type of electrolytic precipitator will prevent waste materials from escaping into the atmosphere, Thomas W. Meade, head of operations, has announced.

Tennesson, who will speak today at the convention, is also responsible for the Aetna Portland Cement Company where he recently served as president.

A civil engineering graduate of Virginia Military Institue, Tennesson joined the Army just prior to World War II and retired with the rank of colonel in 1960.

He then joined the Martin Company, serving in the Baltimore and Orlando divisions and the Washington office.

Wolfe served five years on the Faculty of Rochester Institute of Technology teaching psychology and industrial management courses to industry personnel. He has 13 years of diversified experience in industrial relations with such companies as Avco Corp. and General Railway Signal Company.

Falcons, Buffs to Settle State Supremacy

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

BOULDER — The state's utmost collegiate football powers, Colorado University and the Air Force Academy, will again settle the issue of supremacy within the Centennial State here Saturday afternoon in Folsom Stadium on the CU campus.

Although neither team can claim a spectacular record going into this season finale for both, nonetheless it should boil down to probably the top game of the year for both because of the heated rivalry that has grown steadily over the past half-dozen seasons.

Kickoff is scheduled for 1:30 p.m., and a crowd somewhere over 30,000 is expected for the annual intra - state battle.

Based mainly on a better mark through the first eight games, Air Force will enter as a seven-point pick. But in this series, past records can usually be forgotten for both play as though this were the only game on the schedule. In fact, more times than not, the favorite has lost.

This wasn't quite the case a year ago with Colorado making its first visit to Falcon Stadium, as the favored Air Force came off with a hard-fought 17-14 decision to clinch a berth in the Gator Bowl on a somewhat surprising 7-3 record.

As was the situation year before last, the Buffaloes from Boulder will be looking for their second victory. And in that their second victory. And in that memorable wind up of Coach Bud Davis' one-year coaching career, CU tripped the Falcons by a 34-10 count despite being decided underdogs.

Upsets were also the rule the first three times these rather bitter rivals met, alternating wins until Colorado finally put two back - to - back in 1961-62. Last year's anticipated victory by the AFA evened the series at three-all, but the Cadets have yet to win two straight.

TOP RECEIVER—Colorado University slotback Bill Symons, 197-pound senior from Nucla, Colo., has been the favorite receiver for Buff quarterbacks this season. His 26 catches leads the Big Eight Conference, and he also owns a 4.3 average in rushing.

For the ledger, the Air Force has a 4-4-1 mark and can equal the finish of 1959 with a win. Colorado, on the other hand, has won but one game in eight as Coach Eddie Crowder ends his second term at the helm.

As for incentive, both have it. Air Force would like to wind up the season with a victory to evade a losing season, especially the seniors who have been a steady force for the Falcons for the past three years.

Colorado, on the other hand, can improve its season only slightly with a second win. But they have a definite distate for Cadets in general and would like nothing better than to show on the field of battle that the Buffs still rule the state's football scene.

Both teams will have several seniors playing for the last time this Saturday, but for the most part they are each young teams with plenty of sophomores in the lineups on which future teams will be built. CU has there of these sophs as listed starters, and the Air Force will be taking the kickoff with two first-year linemen and several more rookies waiting on the wings.

Neither coach is planning any drastic switch from the regular lineup, although both have been hampered by injures. The main change for the AFA will have junior Paul Wargo playing both offensive and defensive halfback, replacing Jeff Jarvis on defense. Jarvis broke an arm in last week's 7-7 tie with Wyorning.

Crowder has announced that three of the Buffs will not suit up for the Air Force tussle, with quarterback Hale Irwin, end John Marchiol and guard Tim Monczka all out with injuries. It's doubtful that any would have been starting, however, even if ready.

If last year's game is any indication, the fans attending are in for another down-to-the-wire finish. Air Force took a slim 3-0 lead into the dressing room at halftime on a 27-yard field goal by Bart Holaday, but had to match touchdowns in the final two periods with the Buffs to pull out the triumph. At that, it took a come-from-behind pass from the AFA's great Terry Isaacson to Wargo to corral the Herd.

FALCONS' LEADING RUNNER — Fullback Steve Amdor, 185-pound senior from Mansfield, Ill., has been the Air Force Academy's top rusher throughout the season, getting most of his yardage against some of the top teams in the nation. His best day this season was two weeks ago in Los Angeles against the Bruins of UCLA when he picked up 119 yards in 23 carries. Amdor will be counted on to carry much of the load this Saturday in Boulder when the Falcons face Colorado University. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Defense is bound to play a key role in this year's series renewal, with Colorado playing it stingy on pass defense, and the Air Force boasting its finest rushing defense ever. CU has limited eight opponents to an average of only 67 yards per game, to rank the Buffs fourth nationally in this department despite the losing record.

The numbers game can often be deceiving, however, and often a high ranking in one division means that opponents have been picking on another weakness. In the case of Colorado, the enemy has averaged only 10 passing plays per game.

Still, Air Force has had little success on the ground —with the exception of the upset win over UCLA two weeks ago—and nearly all scoring has come via the accurate left arm of quarterback Tim Murphy.

No strategy has paid off in spectacular fashion on the scoreboard, though, with the Falcons averaging just over 10 points per game. Colorado has averaged nine points. This could be an indication of both the closeness of the probable final score, and perhaps the actual outcome.

Despite Murphy's success in throwing strikes (he's hit on 56 percent), Coach Ben Martin is expected to start junior quarterback Paul Stein in the Air Force backfield, along with seniors Dick Czarnota and Larry Tollstam, and junior running back Warge. Stein has been groomed to take over all the way next year.

Crowder also has had trouble sticking with a single quarterback, and he'll be going with the third of the season in sophomore Bernie McCall, a 175-pounder from Yuma, Colo. He'll have two-year lettermen at fullback (Ben Howe) and slotback (Bill Symons), but another sophomore in speedy Estes Banks at tailback.

As was the case against Wyoming last week, the Falcons will be facing another team in Colorado that likes to flip-flop its line. While Wyoming ran out of an unbalanced alignment with two tackles on one side, the Buffs play it straight but have a tight side and split side which varies with the play. For all general purposes, the tight side is listed on the left although they will play on both sides.

Boyer Praises Fired Berra as Great Player

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — New York Yankee third baseman Clete Boyer said Yogi Berra "was a great ballplayer," but not the man to manage the Yankees.

Commenting on Berra's relations with the Yankees, Boyer said, "He was a great ballplayer, but the Yankees, even after winning the league pennant, let him go. That speaks for itself."

Berra was fired as manager after leading the club to an American League pennant his first year as skipper. This week he took a job as coach of the New York Mets of the National League.

Boyer said Thursday at the University of Oklahoma, where he is attending a three-day insurance clinic, he is working this winter for an insurance firm in Quapaw, Okla., and doing public relations for a Tulsa bank.

Boyer said he plans to use the experience he is gaining in Oklahoma this winter to help him prepare for a business career when he leaves baseball.

Huskers' Big Eight Title Hopes Rest in 'Snake Pit'

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Writer

Nebraska's unbeaten Huskers couldn't pick a tougher finish Saturday in their bid for a second straight undisputed Big Eight football crown than Oklahoma in its "snake pit" at Norman, site of Bob Devaney's last league defeat.

And Kansas couldn't imagine a more difficult windup than Missouri at Columbia as the Jayhawks try for a co-championship with Nebraska. It's the 73rd renewal of the KU-MU series, loaded with upsets and jinxes.

Nebraska is already assured of a cotitle and a Cotton Bowl berth. Its winning streak of 16 games is the longest in the nation. The Huskers are after their first perfect season since Jumbo Steihm's 1915 team swept eight games.

Nebraska stands 6-0 in Big Eight play, Kansas 5-1, losing only to Nebraska 14-7. A tie would give the Huskers an undisputed crown.

Devaney has won 28 of 31 games at Nebraska. One of the losses was 16-7 to Missouri in 1962, another a close one to Air Force last season. The other—his worst—came at Norman in the closing game of 1962, 34-6.

Nebraska went into that game needing a victory to tie OU for the title.

Oklahoma, 3-1-1 in the league and 4-3-1 for all games, has been thwarted by inopportune fumbles and last-minute opposing scores in a 15-14 loss to Kansas and 14-14 tie with Missouri. But the Sooners have the talent to win, plus the desire to salvage a good first year for Gomer Jones.

Nebraska gets the edge, because of its better air game. A crowd of 55,000 to 58,000 is expected.

Mizzou, 3-2-1 in the league and 5-3-1 for the year, could make its season a success by beating Kansas—and many Tiger fans wouldn't consider it an upset. Missouri's defense is better and its offense is very close to that of Kansas. The Jayhawks have more ability for the long-gainer, but MU can drive better. From here, it's a tossup.

Gale Sayers, Kansas halfback who is the league's career record holder in rushing with 2,658 yards, could be the key man in the game.

A crowd of 51,000, a record for the KU-MU series, is expected.

At Manhattan, Kan., K-State hopes to upset Oklahoma State and get its third league victory. It could happen if OSU has any letdown after its big effort at Nebraska. Not since 1955 has a K-State team won three league games. OSU, 3-2, still hopes for a first division finish.

New Coach Leading Terror Basketball

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Roger O'Neil is understandably reticent about this year's edition of the Palmer basketball team—until last fall he had not seen one of the players he must guide through the South Central League.

O'Neil is starting his first year as head cage coach of the Terrors, after a year assisting at an Illinois junior college and four as head coach at a Chicago high school. He won't make a definite prediction as to how his charges will do, and with good reason.

"We'll find out how the team does when we start playing games. I just don't know how we'll do. Potentially, it seems to be a fine team," O'Neill says.

The Terrors have only four lettermen returning from last year. Guards Mike Romero and Bill McCalvy and backliners Frank Wilson and Bob Pearson will be the nucleus of a fairly small and inexperienced crew.

Those four are seniors. Other top classmen who have survived O'Neil's cut to 16 players are Dennis Bair, Claude Spears and Dave Crowell.

The only real height on the team is possessed by 6-6 sophomore Ed Fitzgerald. O'Neill adopts a wait-and-see attitude toward the big youngster, allowing time to determine if he has the necessary talent to go with his height.

And O'Neil should rate at least large economy size when it comes to judging talent on the hardcourt. He graduated from Northern Illinois University and gained the head coaching job at West Chicago High School, where his teams in four years earned two district championships and a regional title.

From Chicago, he attended Colorado University for postgraduate work, then, taking time out for service duty, went one year to Lincoln (Ill.) Junior College, where he worked as assistant coach before coming to Colorado Springs.

In four years at West Chicago, O'Neill's teams rolled up a 61-30 record, an impressive mark in basketball-mad Illinois.

Palmer has an 18-game schedule, with six non-league games scheduled. The Terrors open at home Dec. 4 against Denver South, before travelling to Lamar, hosting Aurora Hinkley, going to Denver Jefferson and hosting Air Academy High and Laramie, Wyo. Then comes the SCL.

Snow Slows Down T-Birds

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The recent snowfall may be a welcome sight to the Colorado Springs area farmers but to Gib Funk's Wasson footballers it is a hindrance in preparing for Saturday's State AAA semi-finals against Aurora Central.

However, the same situation prevails upstate as the Trojans, rated second among the Triple-A high school teams, also drill for Sautrday's outing.

The Wasson-Aurora Central game is scheduled for Wasson Stadium Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. Meanwhile that same day, the state's top ranked team Lakewood plays host to Ft. Collins Poudre at Jefferson County Stadium in the other semi-finals game.

A week from Saturday, Nov. 28, the state championship will be decided between the winners of Saturday's semi-finals games. Should Wasson defeat Aurora Central and Lakewood down Poudre, a flip-of-the-coin would decide the site of the championship game.

Should Aurora Central and Lakewood win their semi-finals games, the state finals would be held in Aurora.

Despite the nearly six inches of snow which fell Wednesday, Funk has had his Wasson team outdoors for a short drills. The Wasson head coach was undoubtedly glad to see the warming trend Thursday.

In looking ahead to Saturday's contest, the game should be decided in the line. Although both teams have great ability to score, the defense will be the for the two TD passes and the key in this semi-finals game.

Under the guidance of head coach Roy Shepherd, who has coached at the northern school for the last five years, the Trojans have won 11 straight games this season including a decisive 33-13 last weekend over Durango in the state quarter-finals.

In addition to an undefeated campaign, the Aurora Central team comes into Saturday's outing with an impressive defensive record. The Trojans have limited their 10 opponents this season to only 109 points while the Central offense, which center around 190-pound hard-driving fullback Craig Bozich, has racked up 334 points.

Shepherd is an advocate of defense and the Trojan coach has the experience and beef in the line to give the Central team a solid forward wall.

However, the small but improved Wason line did a bang up job of stopping Cheyenne Mountain and its 200-pound all-state fullback Greg Cramblit last week in the state quarter-finals. The T-Birds' linemen played one of their finest defensive games when they stopped Cramblit for only 19 net yards rushing, and Cramblit was averaging over 120 yards per game.

Offensively, the Trojans also have a capable throwing quarterback in Jack Gridley, who tossed for two touchdowns against Durango last weekend. Gridley hit halfback Don Igou Trojan quarterback scored on a 29-yard pass from Igou.

Jim Smith will be a big factor in the launching the T-Bird offense, along with fullback Bob Toof. This time the triple-threat Wasson standout will operate from the quarterback slot and not from the halfback position where the Trojans saw him in the season's opener. The Trojans dumped Wasson, 19-6, in that game.

Smith engineered the Thunderbirds' win over Cheyenne as he scored three touchdowns and turned in an outstanding job on defense, coming up with three key pass interceptions.

Smith also completed four of six passes to give the Birds 79 yards and set up their second touchdown.

Middleweight Champions (Rams) and the Co-Champions of the Heavyweight Division (Braves) and (Rams) will receive their awards at the finish of the Middleweight game.

Officialn of the Recreation Dept. announced that the snow has been removed from the playing field and from sections of the bleachers. LEHIGH REPLACED

NEW HAVEN, Co nn(UPI)—Colgate will replace Lehigh on Yale University's 1965 football schedule. The Elis again will play a nine-game schedule, opening at home against Connecticut, Sept. 25.

Buff Tackle Jerry McClurg Key Figure in CU Defense

BOULDER—One of the chief reasons for Colorado's surprisingly solid defensive play during the 1964 campaign is the tackle work of big Jerry McClurg, until this season a real puzzle for the Buffalo coaches. He could be a key figure in the season's final game here Sturday as Colorado plays host to the Air Force.

McClurg has been an extremely effective roadblock as he has been used primarily on defensive, splitting the slot tackle position with another good senior, Stan Irvine.

McClurg weights 226, Irvine 231 to give Coach Eddie Crowder good manpower at this key position.

Jerry was voted Colorado's outstanding lineman against the talented Cornhusker forwards. He racked up three unassisted tackles in that game and was in on 10 more. His work was one of the big factors in helping Colorado do an excellent job of containing the explosive Cornhusker offense which had paced the nation going into the game.

A 226-pound hefty from Grand Junction, McClurg has had a most frustrating college career after a prep career in which he knew only success.

In high school, McClurg was a regular on a state championship football team as a sophomore, was a weightman on two state championship track squads, and the center on two basketball teams which won the consolation bracket in two state cage tournaments.

Naturally, McClurg wore the "can't miss" label when he enrolled at CU.

As a sophomore in 1961 he was understandably buried beneath the tremendous tackle talent on Colorado's Big Eight champions as the Buffs that fall had four veterans who averaged 240 and who all made it in the pro ranks the next season.

McClurg was an important anchors around whom the Colorado line was to be formed. But, through a miscalculation by the Buff coaching staff, he missed becoming eligible by one course, had to sit out the entire fall because of the deficiency. Colorado, meanwhile plagued by other troubles, toppled to a 2-8 record and yielded an awesome 346 points to 10 foes.

To say that McClurg was missed is putting it mildly.

Came 1963 and the arrival of Eddie Crowder as head coach.

McClurg loomed as a real star, ready to shake off the frustrations which had dogged him. But he injured his shoulder in the second game last fall. And just as he was beginning to heal he stepped in a hole while running wind sprints and cracked a small bone in his leg.

The McClurg misfortunes were just beginning, however.

As the leg was mending, his shoulder was deteriorating. A nerve had been severed and his shoulder muscle literally shriveled up, leaving almost a six-inch gap in it.

So McClurg missed almost the entire 1963 campaign, playing in only two games. He had to sit out spring practice last April as the shoulder continued to strengthen slowly. Neither could he participate in contact work this September.

McClurg, thus, was a huge questionmark as the Buffs opened the campaign. But he has come through tremendously.

The shoulder is almost completely healed now. And he's keeping a wary eye posted for gopher holes whenever he runs wind sprints.

Persistence has paid off for the big guy from the sunset side of the Colorado Rockies. Both Jerry and Crowder are thankful for the sudden turn of events.

McClurg faces another full afternoon of trench warfare Saturday when he paces the Colorado forward wall against Air Force in Boulder.

BUFF DEFENDER—Tackle Jerry McClurg, 226-pound senior tackle from Grand Junction, has been a key player in Colorado University's defense this season. Although plagued by injuries most of his career, McClurg has come back strong this year with the Buffs. He has been a factor in making CU tough on any opponent, despite the team's 1-8 record, and he'll see plenty of action on Saturday when the Herd hosts the Air Force in Boulder.

Pikes Peak Ski Area Opens Early

Heavy snows during the past week have made it possible to open the popular Pikes Peak Ski area this Sunday. This will be one of the earliest openings in recent years.

Improvements for the new season include an expansion of the beginners' area and the opening of a new intermediate slope, according to Dr. Beryl Ritchey, president of the Pikes Peak Ski corporation. The new slope, which is immediately above the lodge, has been leveled and groomed to provide a wide run down suitable for beginners using the main Poma-lift for the first time.

The ski area, which is located on the famous Pikes Peak Toll Road at Milepost 11, will be open every Saturday and Sunday throughout the season. A reduced toll charge of 50 cents is in effect during the ski season.

There is no charge for entrance to the area or for parking. All day tickets for both Poma-lifts cost $2.50 for adults and $2 for children under 12 years of age. Spectators are invited to visit.

The Giants of 1933 won 91 games and took the National League pennant. Two years later the New York team won the same number of games but finished third.

Florence Faces Powerful Fruita

FRUITA—Two workhorse fullbacks and a pair of undefeated teams clunk heads Saturday in the semifinals of the Class AA state football playoffs as Florence and Fruita battle at 1:30 p.m.

The contest will decide a contender from the south and west portions of the state to do battle with the winner of the Julesburg-Greeley College High semi-final itlt for the state championship.

Florence won the Pikes Peak League title with a 7-0 record and ran up an 8-0-1 mark during the regular season. The Huskies sent Del Norte home in the quarterfinals with a 21-12 defeat.

Fruita's Panthers have been unstoppable in nine regular season games and crashed through Rangely, 26-0, in the quarters.

Fullbacks comprise the main attacks of the two teams. For Florence, Dick Shadwell has been running wild with 13 regular season touchdowns, but hasn't been close to Fruita's 190-pound Don Paris, who crossed the goal line 22 times during the first nine games.

Each fullback scored all his team's touchdowns last week, Shadwell getting three and Paris scoring four.

But the musclemen are not all the combatants have to offer, if team scoring records mean anything. Fruita has scored 336 points in ten games for a 33.6 average, and has allowed 25 points for a measly 2.5 average on defense.

Florence does not have as spectacular a record, but makes a pretty good showing with 272 points on offense and 55 on defense, 27.2 and 5.5 averages respectively.

CALIFORNIA DEBUT

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Heavyweight contender Cleveland Williams of Houston, Tex., will make his California ring debut against Amos Lincoln of Los Angeles Dec. 4.

Williams is one of four top-ranking boxers elected by the World Boxing Association to participate in a heavyweight elimination tournament. Lincoln has served as one of Sonny Liston's sparring partners.

San Jose Tops AFA In Soccer

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) —The San Jose State soccer team edged Air Force 5-3 Thursday night in winning the NCAA soccer regional championship.

San Jose jumped off to a 4-0 lead and held on as they gained the right to meet St. Louis University, the defending national college soccer champion, in the NCAA national quarter-finals Nov. 28 at St. Louis.

San Jose won the Northern California Intercollegiate Soccer League title and Air Force was the Rocky Mountain champion. The teams tied 3-3 in an early season meeting.

Morris Touted As Top Rookie

BOSTON (AP) — "Jon Morris is definitely the American Football League Rookie-of-the-Year in my opinion."

So says Boston Coach Mike Holovak of the 6-foot-4, 230-pounder who strode off the Holy Cross campus right into the starting offensive center assignment for the defending Eastern Division champions.

"Matt Snell and Sid Blanks are having fine seasons, too," Holovak says. "I just think Morris has done the best job of all.

"I thought Jon would be a real good pro when I drafted him. But he's exceeded even my most optimistic hopes."

Broncos Seek to Redeem Themselves Against Patriots

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Coach Mike Holovak, whose Patriots are two touchdown favorites to beat Denver tonight, has cloaked his offensive plans in secrecy. Whatever they are, a familiar figure— Babe Parilli—will put them into action.

And it's no mystery Denver's Mac Speedie has vowed the Patriots won't repeat their lopsided 38-10 victory over the Broncos earlier this season.

Two facts lend support to this contention. One, Denver's defense has shown tremendous improvement the last few games. Two, Boston has eight walking wounded including flanker Art Graham and left halfback Ron Burton.

They were hurt in the 36-28 victory over previously unbeaten Buffalo last Sunday during which Parilli—operating from Holovak's new spread formation—hurled five touchdown passes.

"We'll start the same offensive and defensive units we used in Buffalo," Holovak said. "Some of the players may not be able to run at top speed but they'll all be in there for as long as they can stand up."

The Patriots must win all four remaining games to keep alive their hopes of catching Buffalo in the Eastern Division. Denver, 2-8, comes here fresh from a 20-16 conquest of New York and recalling the previous meeting with Boston which resulted in Speedie replacing Jack Faulkner as coach.

Denver will be trying to snap two jinxes. The Broncos haven't won in Boston since the first ever AFL game, Sept. 9, 1960. And they haven't won any road game in the last 14, their most recent success away from home being 23-20 at San Diego, Nov. 4, 1962.

Holovak won't say if he'll use the spread formation again. Maybe he'll even have another new wrinkle this time.

Mike just smiles and says: "You'll have to wait until after the whistle blows to get the answer to that."

Parilli, named AFL Back of the Week by The Associated Press for his performance last Sunday, can point to an impressive 24-7-2 team record since he took over as starter.

"I've said he's the best but no one wants to believe me," Holovak says. "Maybe if he played somewhere else they'd appreciate him more—but as long as I'm coach of this club he never will."

In its last three games the Denver defense has intercepted 11 passes and in the last two the team has allowed an average of only 206 yards total offense compared to a season's average of 378.2. Star of these doings has been cornerback Willie Brown.

Denver receiver Lionel Taylor needs only five more receptions to become the first AFL player with 400 catches. With four games left, Boston's Gino Cappelletti is 26 points shy of surpassing his own single season record of 147 set in 1961.

The other AFL games this weekend find Kansas City at Houston and New York at Oakland Sunday.

Meanwhile the fate of fullback Cookie Gilchrist has been decided. He's staying in Buffalo, the waivers withdrawn, after making apologies.

San Diego, also idle, has acquired Jack Spikes to do the place-kicking now that Ben Agajanian is sidelined by a leg injury.

Electric Cart Almost Drops Palmer From Cajun Golf

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Arnold Palmer doesn't know it, but he came within a cat's whisker of being disqualified before he even started his battle with Jack Nicklaus for the 1964 golf money championship.

The night before the start of Thursday's first round in the $25,000 Cajun Classic — which wound up being washed out by a thunderstorm — Arnie's caddy, 15-year-old Danny Barbato, son of host pro Luca Barbato, asked his dad for an electric cart to check the pin placements just made by PGA tournament supervisor Joe Black.

Black was standing alongside the elder Barbato when Danny made the request.

"You can't do that Danny. . .it would disqualify him," both shouted in unison. PGA rules forbid a player or his caddy from using a cart.

"He was just overeager," said Luca Barbato.

Nicklaus jokingly accused Palmer of taking his airplane up and "salting the clouds or something" to cause Thursday's downpour.

Palmer, one of the day's early starters, had finished his round with a two-over par 74, running into trouble on the wind-swept Oakbourne Country Club course.

Nicklaus got off to a booming start in his drive to overhaul Palmer for the money championship. Palmer leads Nicklaus by $319 and both have picked up checks for over $111,000 in tourneys this year.

The Burly Nicklaus — chief challenger for Palmer's golf throne — played only eight holes before the rains came. But he was four strokes under par, or six strokes ahead of Palmer.

Big 10, Bowl Bid at Stake

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Now that Michigan's head cheerleader has warmed up, the Wolverines will try Saturday for their first Row Bowl appearance in 14 years.

Michigan, No. 6 in the nation, plays seventh-ranked Ohio State for the Big Ten championship and the trip to Pasadena, Calif. The game, considered a toss-up, is one of the highlights of college football's last big weekend which pairs many traditional rivals.

The weekend gets underway tonight when North Carolina State meets Wake Forest. A victory would give State the Atlantic Coast Conference title. Other major games pit Vanderbilt against Miami of Florida and New Mexico at Hawaii.

Michigan's rooters started getting their steam up Thursday night at a campus pep rally. University President Harlan Hatcher led some 4,000 students in cheers and noted that the students could travel to the Rose Bowl without worrying about final examinations because the school's first trimester ends before Jan. 1.

The Wolverines, 5-1 in the conference and 7-1 over-all, last were in the Rose Bowl following the 1950 season. The situation then was similar to the present.

Michigan went into its final game with Ohio State needing a victory to beat out the Buckeyes for the title. The Wolverines won 9-3 in a bitter snow storm.

Ohio State is undefeated in five Big Ten encounters and is also 7-1 over-all. The Buckeyes' last Pasadena visit followed the 1957 season.

Whichever team wins, it may not know its Pacific Athletic Conference opponent right away. The PAC race is such that any one of several teams could win the crown. Saturday's schedule has the contenders playing among each other: Oregon State-Oregon; Southern California-UCLA and Washington-Washington State.

Several other bowl spots remain to be filled. Ninth-ranked Syracuse plays West Virginia and is expected to announce acceptance of a Sugar Bowl invitation afterward. Syracuse's likely opponent, eight-ranked Louisiana State, plays Tulane.

Apparently wide open are the Gator, Bluebonnet, Liberty and Sun Bowls.

The winner of Saturday's Florida-Florida State contest has a good chance of receiving a Gator invitation. Other post-season contenders playing are Tulsa against Toledo, Penn State against Pitt and Kansas against Missouri.

Unbeaten Notre Dame, the nation's No. 1 team which probably won't wind up in a bowl, goes after its ninth victory, meeting a tough Iowa squad.

The Irish haven't said definitely one way or the other about their bowl availability, but by the time they do decide — if it's positively — a major bowl may not be available.

Third-ranked Arkansas meets Texas Tech while Nebraska, No. 4, takes on Oklahoma. Second-ranked Alabama and Texas, No. 5, are idle.

Besides the Pitt-Penn State clash, a pair of Ivy League games highlight the schedule in the east. Princeton goes after an unbeaten season against Cornell while Yale and Harvard encounter. Other Big Ten meetings are Illinois-Michigan State, Purdue-Indiana and Wisconsin-Minnesota.

In the South, it's Duke-North Carolina, Tennessee-Kentucky, South Carolina-Clemson and Virginia-Maryland. The Southwest has Rice-Texas Christian and Southern Methodist-Baylor while the Far West shows, California-Stanford and Colorado-Air Force.

Hayes May Turn to Pro Grid Career

By ROBERT SANDLER

TALLAHASEE, Fla. (AP) — Robert Hayes, world's fastest human who won two gold medals in track at the Tokyo Olympics, would rather play football.

And, following graduation from Florida A and M University in June, Hayes has an opportunity to go into professional football.

Despite his gold medals and world records for running, the 21-year-old Hayes has his heart and mind set firmly on the gridiron.

In high school at his native Jacksonville, Hayes was a star in football, track, baseball and basketball. At Florida A&M he has confined his athletic efforts to football and track.

Coach Jake Gaither, the man behind Hayes' Olympic efforts, said of him: "Hayes is first a good athlete and a terrific competitor. He is a good team man, and is always considerate of the rest of the squad.

"If Bob wants to play pro football, he has great potential."

The 190-pound, 5-foot-11 halfback was drafted last year by the Denver Broncos of the American Football League and the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

"I think that I would like to play football,"he said,without committing himself further.

In any case, he won't turn to track. "No more Olympics," he said. "If the olympics were next year, I'd be glad to, but not in 1968."

Hayes told an interviewer he has no immediate goals. "All I want to do is as much as I can to help myself and the university.

"The goal I had, I was successful in—winning the gold medal."

During Hayes' 3½ years at Florida A&M, he set three track records and tied another.

He ran the 60-yard dash in 5.9 seconds, the 70-yard dash in 6.9, and the 100-yard dash in 9.1, setting three world records.

At the Olympics, he tied the Olympic and world record for the 100-meter dash in 10 seconds. He came from behind twice in the 400-meter relay to win his second gold medal.

In the semifinals, he picked up 13 yards in 100 meters—about 109 yards—to win. In the finals, he received the baton in sixth place, picked up 10 yards and won going away.

Class A Championships Up for Grabs Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two state championships will be determined in Colorado high school football play Saturday. Four other games will clear the way for title-deciding contests Nov. 28.

Limon, which has won nine of its 10 games this season, will play at Springfield (10-1) for the Class A crown. Fleming will go to Hugo for the title game in the Class A Eight-player division. Each is undefeated in nine games.

The Class AAA semifinals throw Poudre of Fort Collins (9-1) against Lakewood (11-0) at Lakewood, and Aurora Central (11-0) against Colorado Springs Wasson (7-4) at the latter's field.

None of the semifinalists in the Class AA division has been beaten this season alhtough two have played ties.

Julesburg (10-0) will meet College High (9-0-1) at Greeley, and Florence (9-0-1) will battle Fruita (10-0) at the Western Slope team's gridiron.

Limon beat Springfield 20-14 during the regular season. Limon's only loss was to St. Francis, Kan., 31-14. It won the Class B title last year by beating Springfield 28-7. This year the Class B and C divisions were dropped.

Poudre reached the championship playoffs in its first year of operation as a new state high school.

Gene Littler Takes Lead In California Tournament

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Favored Gene Littler went into today's final round of the $8,000 Southern California Open Golf Championship exactly as expected — in first place. But he was only a shot ahead of challenger Pete Brown.

Littler, a former National Open Champion, shot a three-under-par 69 Thursday for a 36 hole total of 136. Brown shot the hole total of 136. Brown shot the tournament's best round, a seven-under-par 65, after opening with a 72.

"I just played fair," Littler said. "I didn't make anything spectacular but I had four birdies.

Brown, who won the Waco Turner Open and then lost in a playoff to Bill Casper in the Almaden Open last month, took two penalty strokes Thursday because of water hazards.

"I couldn't make par on the 16th but I was ale to get out of trouble when I sank a good putt on the next hole," he said. Brown needed just 26 putts for the day.

In third place with 138 was Bob Harrison of Palm Desert, Calif. Tied for fourth with 140 were Charlie Stifford of Los Angeles and Bob Duden of Portland, Ore. Alone in sixth place with 141 was Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif.

Big Name Players May Be Traded in Majors

By MURRAY CHASS

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's interleague trading period opens at midnight tonight with Dick Stuart, part of a major interleague deal two years ago, possibly on his way back to the National League.

Stuart's name is just one of many that have been suggested as principals in transactions that may take place between National and American League clubs in the next 25 days, or until midnight Dec. 15.

Trading is expected to reach its peak—if there is a peak—during the major league meeting in Houston starting Nov. 30. Only four deals were completed between the two leagues last year compared with 14 in 1962.

Although there is no way of telling whether there will be few or many trades this year, various reports indicate some big names may be involved.

Stuart, Boston's controversial slugger, is said to be headed for Philadelphia where the frustrated Phillies need a long ball hitter for another shot at the NL pennant. In return, the Phillies reportedly will give up a pitcher, either right-hander Art Mahffey or left-hander Dennis Bennett.

Stuart went to the Red Sox from Pittsburgh in a four-player trade in 1962. After a poor season with the Pirates, the big first baseman hit 42 home runs and drove in 118 runs with Boston, earning the Comeback of the Year award.

This past season he dipped slightly, slamming 33 homers and driving in 114 runs. Mahaffey and Bennett both were disappointments with the Philliies, Mahaffey compiling a 12-9 record and Bennett a 12-14 mark.

Among other names being tossed around in trade talk are Jim Gentile, Vada Pinson, Bob Allison and Ed Mathews.

Gentile, after one season with Kansas City, reportedly will go to Houston in exchange for a pitcher, someone like Dick Farrell or Bob Bruce. Gentile hit 28 homers and had 71 RBI last season.

Pinson apparently has aroused mixed feelings in the management. A 309 lifetime hitter who has gone as high as .343, Pinson plummeted to .266 the past season. The Reds seem to be ready to let him go if they can get something worthwhile in return.

His destination is unknown, but the Baltimore Orioles are looking for an outfielder of Pinson's .300 plus caliber.

The Pirates apparently have been eyeing Minnesota's Allison for some time, and the Twins just may deposit him in the National League if Pittsburgh can supply a starting pitcher.

The Twins, loaded with power, still need more pitching before becoming serious contenders for the AL championship. The Pirates similarly need a power hitter or two. Allison socked 32 homers with 86 RBI in 1964.

Mathews expected to be traded last year and feels even more certain about his non-Milwaukee future now. Mathews is on the other side of the hill — he hit .233 last season — but could be of help with the long ball.

A couple of other sluggers, Norm Cash of Detroit and Frank Howard of the Los Angeles Dodgers, also could wind up in different leagues for 1965. Cash hit only .257 while Howard was even worse at .226.

It's possible, however, that the Dodgers still are enamored with Howard's potential and will give him one more chance.

Lending to the possbility of a busier interleague trading period this year than last is the fact that all 20 teams, including the pennant winning St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees, are seeking help for at least one position.

The 1963 season saw only one major trade. Pitcher Jim Bunning and catcher Gus Triandos went to Philadelphia from Detroit in exchange for infielder-outfielder Don Demeter and pitcher Jack Hamilton.

Bunning was one of the maujor reasons why the Phillies nearly won the NL pennant while Demeter was the Tigers' big clutch hitter.

Colts Can Clinch First Division Title Since 1959

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Victories by the Baltimore Colts, Cleveland Browns and Philadelphia Eagles Sunday could tie an early knot on the National Football League's 1964 championship package.

The Colts, riding a nine-game winning streak into Los Angeles, can bring home their first Western Division title since 1959 by outscoring the Rams.

If the Browns get by the Green Bay Packers at Milwaukee, and the Eagles upend the visiting St. Louis Cardinals, the Eastern Division crown will belong to Cleveland for the first time since 1957.

The Colts are favored to keep their string intact; the Browns and Eagles are slight underdogs. If all three came through, runner-up places and 1965 salaries will be the only things at stake in the remaining three weeks of play.

Last season, the Chicago Bears and New York Giants needed final-game victories to nail championship berths. Sunday they'll be battling to escape division cellars against San Francisco and Pittsburgh, respectively. Dallas-Washington and Minnesota-Detroit rematches complete the schedule.

The Denver Broncos invade Boston for an American Football League date with the Patriots tonight. Sunday's AFL pairings are New York at Oakland and Kansas City at Houston. San Diego and Buffalo are idle.

Quarterback Johnny Unitas, who led the Colts to back-to-back league championships in 1958-59, will be pitching against the Rams. His three long touchdown bombs to Jimmy Orr carried Baltimore to a 35-20 victory in the teams' first meeting. Pass catcher Ray Berry, recovering from a pulled hamstring muscle, is a doubtful starter.

The Rams, tied for second place with Detroit, 3½ games off the Colts' pace, will depend on the passing of Roman Gabriel and the running of rookie Les Josephson. Gabriel passed for 290 yards and rookie Bucky Pope caught five for 105 yards last week in a 34-24 loss to Chicago.

Baltimore's Lenny Moore ran his consecutive game scoring streak to 13 in the Colts' 17-14, come-from-behind victory over Minnesota last Sunday. He leads the league with 90 points.

Jimmy Brown, a rookie on Cleveland's last championship team, will become the first NFL player to carry the ball 2,000 times on his seventh trip against the Packers. The great fullback passed the 1,000-yard mark for the sixth season with 147 in last week's victory over Detroit.

The game will be the second straight intersectional test for the Browns. They have a 3½-game bulge over St. Louis in the East and have won five in a row.

Quarterback Bart Starr and fullback Jim Taylor, injured in the Packers' loss to San Francisco last week, are expected to play. Green Bay beat the Browns 49-17 in 1961, the last time the teams meet.

The Cardinals, who meet Philadelphia for the first time this season, lost ground to Cleveland last week when they waded to a 10-10 standoff against New York in the Busch Stadium mud.

King Hill quarterbacked the Eagles, crippled by injures to running backs Tim Brown and Ollie Matson, to a 17-14 verdict over Dallas last week. St. Louis has won the last four games between the clubs.

The Bears, tied with San Francisco for last place in the West, will be out to avenge an earlier loss to the 49ers. Rudy Bukich, who hit on 28 of 37 passes in the Bears' victory over Los Angeles last Sunday, and 49er rookie George Mira are the likely quarterback foes. Chicago's Johnny Morris with 77 receptions, needs eight to top the NFL season record.

The Giants are last in the East, behind the Steelers, who beat them 27-24 early in the season but have slumped since. Pittsburgh has quarterback troubles; the Giants have been slowed by injures to front-liners.

The Lions' faint title hopes rest on their ability to repeat an earlier victory over Minnesota and a Los Angeles upset of Baltimore. The Vikings are shooting for their first six-victory season in their four-year NFL tenure.

Dallas beat Washington in the teams' first meeting but the Redskins have been coming on of late — four victories in their last six starts — behind veteran passer Sonny Jurgensen and rookie running back Charlie Taylor. Each club has designs on fourth place in the East, with the Cowboys holding a one-half game edge.

Will Tired Celts Lose First NBA Title After Six?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Is this the year the Celtics finally lose the pennant?

St. Louis Coach Harry Gallatin recently raised the question about Boston, which has won the National Basketball Association championship six straight seasons. He termed the Celtics "a tired" ball club this early in the season.

The Celtics, ailing but able, resume action against New York in the first game of a doubleheader tonight.

Boston has the best record in the league as of now, 13-3. But after the Hawks lost to the Celtics 100-97 the other night he commented: "This wasn't the Celtics. They looked tired. Funny thing to say early in the year.

"Tired, I guess, from all those years, maybe. There are a lot of weary bones out there for those guys and it shows."

"Rubbish," replies Boston coach, Red Auerbach. "It was complacency," he added about the recent stretch when his team lost three out of four.

Boston good news is that John Havlicek played 31 minutes against the Hawks and his troublesome knee did not swell up for a change.

"Every day it's rest and heat and then I hope," says John.

Meanwhile, Bill Russell is sub-par physically. Larry Siegfried is out at least 10 days with a leg ailment. Willie Maulls (back), Tom Sanders (back) and K. C. Jones (ankle) will be available.

Private Efforts to Prevent Crime

Mr. Brown, in our Open Parliament Section, has put his finger on one of the major problems we face. And he has a really good point.

It is true that in many major cities, and possibly in some of our smaller towns, people are simply refusing to get themselves involved when some heinous or criminal act is threatened or perpetrated.

It is slowly dawning upon many people that in spite of the enormous taxes we pay, we are not protected. And persons who have intervened in cases such as those suggested by Mr. Brown, often find themselves spending long hours in court, and actually accused at times of intervening where they had no business to intervene.

We strongly favor market place protection for we believe it to be far more effective and far less costly than government retributive justice. What we really want, isn't the apprehension of the criminal so much as the total frustration of the criminal. Catching him after the fact isn't sufficient. Thwarting him in the commission of a crime or an assault is what is truly desirable.

There are on the market, a few magnificent devices which would certainly serve to deter a criminal making a physical assault upon anyone. One of the best we know, which might aid in Mr. Brown's effort, is a little item about the size of a plastic squeeze bottle. In fact, it IS a plastic squeeze bottle. Inside is a kind of dye, perfectly harmless except for its staying qualities. It will not wash off, being impervious to all soap, water, detergents and what not. It has to wear off. A person having such a device in his (or her) possession, would be in immediate advantage when confronted with an antagonist. A quick squeeze, and the assailant is indelibly marked. Identification is certain. And the knowledge in advance that many persons were carrying just this type of identification device, would certainly put a damper on criminal activities of a personal assault type. They are not expensive. We've seen them advertised in different cities in the nation.

Another device is a noise-maker. When triggered, it goes off with a sound that rends the air like the crack of doom and is calculated to send a foot-pad streaking for cover. It is small in size and will fit readily into purse or pocket. And it is not costly.

However, the biggest single factor relates to the attitude of people.

If there is a general belief that criminal activities fall into a category wherein the police have a monopoly, then many if not most people will continue to shrug off cries for help and shift the burden on someone else.

But if we can learn that government, including the police, CANNOT protect you and that you must protect yourself, then we will have accomplished a major objective.

Municipal police are a relatively recent invention. If we go back more than a hundred and fifty years we will discover that they didn't exist.

Then, a cry of "Stop thief" would electrify a community, and all good men and true would drop whatever they were doing to take off in pursuit of the miscreant. Then it was that people believed that protection was important and that they would volunteer to help protect each other.

However, with the rise of legalism, professional and tax-paid police agencies, and so on, our willingness to go to anyone's rescue has been virtually eliminated.

Let this not be taken as a criticism of policemen. Most, if not all, of the men holding down this job, are sincere and dedicated people. But they are hampered with reams of legalistic formulae. They must operate within a framework of "reasonable doubt"; legally accepted evidence; and a host of laws which serve more often than not to protect the malefactor.

Basically, we think Mr. Brown's idea is sound. It is not the reporting of or the identification of a criminal that should be emphasized, however. If enough people become imbued with the thought that they CAN and SHOULD assist a person in distress, then various malefactors are going to come up against a problem they cannot cope with or get around.

Let's place major emphasis on PREVENTING the crime, not on court procedures afterwards.

How Not to Study Philosophy

A shallow approach to learning isn't necessarily a hallmark of present-day higher education, but one does not have to probe deeply to discover traces of this shallowness.

For example, under date of November 9, we received a letter from a sophomore who is in attendance at a college in Colorado. We will withhold his name since the letter was not sent for publication.

But the gist of the letter was a request for information concerning the philosophy of Rampart College. In part, this student wrote:

"I . . have been asked to present a discussion on the philosophy put forth by Rampart College, on Monday, November 16, 1964.

"Would you please send me any material available on the philosophy of Rampart College . . .?"

The letter was sent by ordinary post and reached our offices on Thursday, November 12. Assuming fortuitous government winds blowing the mails in the direction of this college, it is barely possible that our letter in response may reach this young student just before he goes into class to discuss a philosophy of which he has so little knowledge, has spent so little time in examining, that he was constrained to write a letter, begging to be informed, just prior to an exposition in this area.

We might point out that there is an entire literature available on the subject of the philosophy in question, and that we encourage people to examine the subject in depth. We also might point out that the philosophy is so profound that some of the nation's deepest scholars are struggling with it now and have been for years; that it is a philosophy traceable to the time of Zeno in ancient Greece; and that it is profound enough so that we know of no one who professes to understand it in all its ramifications.

However, the young student went on in his letter to propound three questions, indicative of his lack of information in the area.

"1. Within a state of individualism without government, would not a few strong individuals tend to control the weaker masses, or the weak follow the strong, whether the strong desired it or not, until a form of government emerged?

"2. In order for an individual to survive, does he not have to be dependent to a certain degree on those around him?

"3. For someone to be an individual does he not have to be recognized by society as an individual?"

These questions obviously appear to be most pertinent to the student, and in consequence may appear to be pertinent to others who have not studied the subject, although we might have hoped for a more judicious approach from an institution of higher learning. In consequence, we are appending our answer to this student, so that our answers to these questions may be available to others.

"There is a sizable literature available concerning the philosophy of Rampart College which is for sale. I am enclosing a copy of our publications list from which you may make selection. This literature is far too extensive for us to furnish it without cost, or for you to read it in time for your November 16 discussion. I'm afraid you will have to present your views based upon misinformation or no information at all.

"However, you do ask three questions which I will be delighted to answer.

"1. When a group of strong individuals emerge to take control of a larger group, the group so emerging is called 'government.' It may be formulated along various lines but it constitutes the government irrespective of its organizational format.

"The philosophy of Rampart College is based upon stoicism (see Zeno) and strives to improve individual man rather than collective man. Its purpose is not to eliminate government but rather to emphasize self-government and self-control.

"2. For an individual to survive he certainly will have to depend on many others besides himself. This dependence, however, is really interdependence. It is found in what we call 'the market.' Each person voluntarily brings into the market what he has: energy, skill, brainpower, money, goods or services, and exchanges them for what he would rather have in terms of energy, skill, brainpower, money, goods or services.

"3. For a person to be an individual he only has to be born. I refer you to Dr. Roger Williams' excellent study on 'biochemical individuality.' Individuality is a physiological fact. Whether society chooses to recognize this fact or not, does not change the basic individuality of each person. Many men for many years did not know the earth was round. The fact that they failed to recognize it did not change the shape of the earth. If 'society' (a vague, imprecise term) fails to recognize the nature of its component parts, this in no way changes the nature of the component parts. Actually, 'society' recognizes nothing, it having no centralized cognitive powers. Only individuals within any group have cognitive powers and can recognize anything."

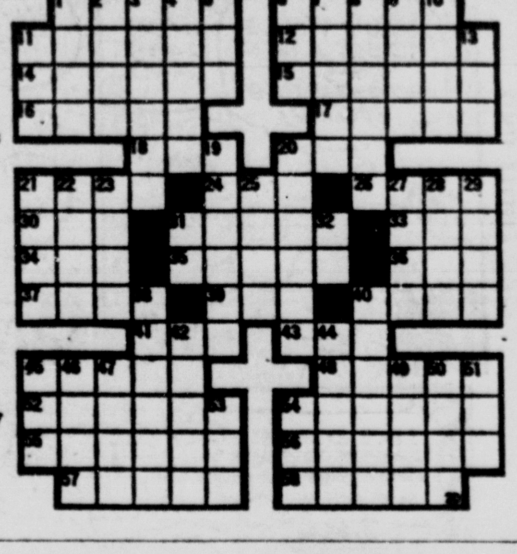
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Question Box

QUESTION No. 616: "It is difficult in this day and age to ascertain the true causes and cures of the Great Depression of the 1930's. If this depression was not due to the ineptness of the Hoover administration and unregulated stock market activities, and the cure was not due to the effectiveness of Roosevelt's administration, then what were the real causes and cure? Are there any books to be found today, written for the layman, that give a factual account of this tragedy?"

ANSWER: That is a good question. The best answer we can give is a quotation of Elihu Root's when the Federal Reserve law was passed in 1913. He wrote: "This is in no sense a provision for an elastic currency. It does not provide an elastic currency. It provides an expansive currency, but not an elastic one. It provides a currency which may be increased, always increased, but not a currency for which the bill contains any provision compelling reduction . . . With the exhaustless reservoir of the government of the United States furnishing easy money, the sales increase, the businesses enlarge, more new enterprises are started, the spirit of optimism pervades the community. Bankers are not free from it. They are human. The members of the Federal Reserve Board will not be free from it. They are human. All the world moves along on a growing tide of optimism. Everyone is making money. Everyone is growing rich. It goes up and up . . . . until finally someone breaks . . . and down comes the whole structure. I can see in this bill . . . no influence interposed by us against the occurrence of one of those periods of false and delusive prosperity which inevitably end in ruin and suffering. For the most direful results of the awakening of the people from such a dream are not to be found in the banking houses — no: not even in the business houses. They are to be found among the millions who have lost the means of earning their daily bread."

This quotation is taken from the book, "The God Of The Machine," by Isabel Paterson. It is under the chapter heading of "Credit and Depressions."

The "God Of The Machine" was printed in 1943 and copyrighted by Isabel Paterson. After the reading of this book, it so impressed us that we bought 100 copies of it.

We are glad to say that this book has now been reprinted and it is available from the Caxton Printers Ltd., Caldwell Idaho.

Prior to the above quotation Isabel Paterson wrote the following concerning who went on the federal relief first:

"The real cleavage did not occur on the lines Macaulay drew, between the rich and the poor. It was between the producers and the non-producers, in the main. The first measure of 'relief' was the reconstruction Finance Corporation; and the first money paid out from it went to J. P. Morgan & Co. It was the non-productive rich who first went on the dole. Had they not done so, no measure could have been passed for federal poor relief; and the workingman accepted it only in extremity and with bitterness; what he wanted was a job."

One of the best books to read concerning this is, "The Promises Men Live By," by Harry Scherman. He goes into the money and credit business very clearly. He says that we have no real money, we only have promises to pay money. And it is promises for money that we still have and we are still in trouble.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

QUICK QUIZ

Q — What incident provided the historical basis for Longfellow's poem "Evangeline?"

A — In 1755, the deportation of 6,000 Acadians from Nova Scotia began. The English expulsion order and subsequent deportations provided "Evangeline's" historical background.

CRIME INCREASE

To the Editor:

Your Tuesday issue contained an article about the increase of crime in our city. The final paragraph was especially noteworthy: "More than one third of the offenses cleared by arrest involved those of 17 years of age and under—."

Any person committing a criminal act should be apprehended but what about those who aren't? They feel that they are getting away with something — they feel daring enough to try it again.

More and more we are reading about assaults, robberies, muggings and rapes within the city limits. Just the other day, a neighborhood boy was assaulted at the intersection of Cascade and Pikes Peak Ave. This occurred in broad daylight. It also occurred during the rush hour. Yet, there were no persons who were willing to admit that they had witnessed the assault. No one would go to his assistance although he was beset by several older boys. They broke his glasses and severely injured his jaw. They were in a car which he could not identify because of the loss of his glasses. Yet, no one took the trouble to write down the license number. No one took the trouble to notify the police of the assailants' descriptions. Are we getting like New York City, where people blandly watch stabbings and worse?

I suggest IRE (Identify — Report Effort) for our citizens. Wouldn't it arouse your ire if no one came to your assistance when you were jumped? If each citizen would take the trouble to make an effort to identify the culprits by personal description and car description, including license, at least, AND report it to the police, then perhaps we would not have such daring and bold actions against the people and violations of law and order.

So remember IRE (Identify and Report Effort) for it could be you who would need this information passed to the police for your own protection in the future.

TAX EXEMPTION

To the Editor:

I read with interest an article on the front page of the Nov. 17 Gazette entitled, "Hargis Battles To Keep His Tax-Exempt Status."

Religious organizations generally establish tax exemption under the Internal Revenue code of 1954 section 501 (c)(3), which reads as follows:

"Corporations, and any community chest, fund or foundation, organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, testing for public safety, literary or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting to influence legislation, and which does not participate in, or intervene in (including the publishing or distributing of statements), any political campaign on behalf of any candidate for public office."

One may then apply for exemption by submitting exemption application forms 1023 along with the required documents to the district office in Denver.

Now then, I see in this that one has to agree not to in any way speak out on political items. This they must agree to before they can file for exemption. Thus, when this is signed a damper is put on those who agree and by their signing they agree to this bondage.

Perhaps it is the church getting so big they would have to pay too much. Certainly in the Apostles' time the church was small and Christ sent one of them down to get a fish in which was the ta money.

True, tax exemption is a thing that gives much more money to work with, but is it worth the bowing down to the conditions which are enforced? It certainly seems to me that when one agrees to terms like this they then lose their power to speak free and stand up against corruption wherever it may be.

Many times, however, the Scripture states that we are not to speak evil of the rulers of our land, and surely when this was written the rulers were far more ungodly than today.

I write this just to help some to see what they get into when they agree to tax exempion for a church or group. Remember, there is always a catch. They sure don't give you something for nothing.

Which will it be, money or freedom? In this day, a church can't have both.

FEARLESS LEADER

To the Editor:

There once was a country in which the following events took place over a period of years:

1.) The newspapers almost wholly supported fearless leader and worked enthusiastically for him, writing stories of great praise about his high and well qualified experience to fill the top public office of his country. Praise upon praise was sold the people about fearless leader by the press. Indeed, the press couldn't do enough to assist fearless leader in his campaign efforts for election.

2.) Businessmen eagerly supported fearless leader in return for defense contracts and armament monies which were promised to continue to roll into the companies of those businessmen.

3.) The people clamored for fearless leader and the government to supply them with housing, medical care, care for the aged, guaranteed security, and an end to worry, care for the unemployed etc.

4.) Fearless leader promised the people to satisfy their demands for housing, medical care, elimination of poverty, etc.

5.) Fearless leader was elected by a huge majority of the people representing the will of the masses.

6.) The houses of government became rubber stamps to promote all the programs which fearless leader presented to satisfy the people and keep his promises to them.

The country was Nazi Socialist Germany and fearless leader, Hitler.

Do these events suggest a parallel of events of recent vintage in another country about which we know?

SUBVERSION

To the Editor:

Some individuals and immature students are repeating, "Why mention communistic subversives — only the twenty-six and a half million who voted for Republican principles of freedom are concerned about these." Whoever ignores this creeping subversion in American social action is due for a grand awakening. Not a few Americans are trying to live with a who cares attitude, according to the extent they have been influenced by pink and red news fronts, making themselves believe that red horse co-existence means peace with freedom for all when in reality this enemy of mankind visualizes co-existence in an entirely different way. This U.N.O. one-worlder advocate sees himself on top, with every American kissing his feet in obedient enslavement.

If you are deceived by one-sided propaganda, not fully conscious that this world-wide attempt of subversive dictatorship over Christian and other nationalities is real, then you are urged to read, "A Nation Saves Itself" in the November, 1964 Reader's Digest. The reading of this article is a must for every high school and university student, together with every adult in our nation including the armed forces personnel.

Every youth and adult needs to be alerted, so as to be ready to recognize when communist agents and their stooges succeed to infiltrate our federal government bureaucrats and U.N.O. affiliates with their influence to subvert public school teaching, National Council of Churches and labor unions. Self-deception in saying, "It can't happen here," is a sure invitation for these subversive invaders to take over by degrees and then completely at an opportune moment. The next time you and I go to the polls to vote, we shall first investigate which of our two parties has been infiltrated with the venum of this traitorous element with its appointees in policy-making positions.

It is of no use closing our eyes to reality and the quicker we open them to see the extent this subversion is taking root in our public and private institutions, the better it will be. The recent Republican candidate for president succeeded in waking up more than twenty-five million voters to this creeping monster facing America. Now it is the responsibility of every loyal American citizen to be alert at all times; for "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty" is more applicable to our nation in the immediate future than it has been in any other period of our history.

Kickback Boondoggle

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

Your federal government is reported to be considering a plan to return a certain amount of tax revenue to the states.

We are informed that through the boundless generosity of the federal government the states could do more or less what they liked with the money. Only a few strings would be attached. The administration before election day stated that "the national government, as a constructive partner in a creative federalism, should help restore fiscal balance and strengthen state and local governments by making available for their use some part of our great and growing tax revenues over and above existing aids. Government analysts say that with present tax rates and the current rate of economic growth, federal revenues now are increasing at the rate of $6 billion a year." Government bureaucrats who call themselves economists are worrying about the problem of how to get $6 billion a year back into the hands of the people and are using the expression "fiscal dividend" to make it sound good.

Carelessly, the statement suggests that this would be a way of returning tax revenues to the people who pay them. It is also interesting to note that the item to which I refer explains this plan as being "a massive federal handout to the states." Obviously, the federal government is not concerned with returning the tax revenues to the people who pay them. This is a classic example of contemporary double talk which means even less than nothing. But let's look at this particular idiocy for a moment.

By inference, the federal government admits that it is taking too much revenue out of the states. The federal government, however, obviously believes it should first take the money away from the earners and investors, then set up another bureau or agency or department to redistribute certain amounts to the states, permitting the states to do more or less what they like with the money with only relatively few strings attached. If you are not inclined to nausea, I suggest you read that statement again.

Oddly enough, the government economic advisors now admit that taking so much money out of the "nation's economic bloodstream" might even bring on a recession. Here is a statement of great importance — when even the federal government admits that taxes take money out of the "nation's economic bloodstream" despite the fact that the Keynesian double talkers have been insisting for many years that when government takes money out of the "national economic blood-stream" it is actually putting money into the "national economic bloodstream."

Here again we have an illustration of government forcibly taking property from earners and investors, shuffling it through the mumbo-jumbo jungle of the bureaucracy for the benefit of the bureaucracy, then returning it to a lesser bureaucracy in its now diminished form where the lesser bureaucracy may now do what it pleases with the money which once belonged to its citizens with relatively few strings attached.

Now, maybe all this makes sense to you and if it does, I am sincerely sorry for your troubles. The item I refer to makes no economic sense except that it indicates government has now blown itself up to such a tremendous bloat that it is beginning to find it difficult to dream up more ways to waste money or more parasites will to cling to the backs of earners and investors.

Oddly enough, and I find this a matter of great encouragement, the number of people willing to sacrifice their self-respect and ability to earn on the altar of a government job is diminishing. Sure, there are still a great many people who aspire to the abysmal mediocrity of a "government job" but my sources of information indicate that the numbers are diminishing returns and while government officials are trying to avoid recognizing the evidence for what it is, there is no doubt but that a growing feeling of insecurity is beginning to disturb the more intelligent people who draw pay checks from government.

Today, we talked with another married couple who have plans which will lead to a very important reduction in the taxes they will pay. As in many instances we have encountered this year, this will not mean a lower standard of living but simply a different and probably more enjoyable standard of living. That this attitude is gaining strength among an appreciable number of intelligent, responsible people during this election year is of tremendous importance. These people are so busy attending to their own plans and responsibility they have no time to concern themselves with the double talking and myths and images of politicians.

You may like to consider the fact that nothing deflates the ego of a bureaucrat so much as a total disinterest in his plans for you. When your plans are designed to do the best job you can of by-passing his clutching hands, you just don't worry about government pretending to return what it stole from you in the first place. It can't be done.

Good luck and good health to you in freedom.

Why Unemployment?

From Christian Economics

The principal cause of poverty in our country is unemployment. Our officials can learn little about how to create more jobs by visiting Appalachia and other places where jobs are scarce. They would do better to visit the places where all workers are employed and labor is being imported. Why not discover why there is no unemployment in France and Germany? Whatever principles and practices produce what happy condition there, would undoubtedly produce the same results in our country.

There are comparatively few unemployed adults in our country, only about 4.6 per cent of the adult labor force and many of these are not seriously looking for full-time jobs. Our great problem is among youth where the unemployed rate is 13.6 per cent of the 14-19 year old labor force. By contrast, there is a shortage of apprentices and young workers in most countries of Western Europe.

Upon leaving school, a young German becomes an apprentice at a low wage. He is not very productive while he is learning and his main job is completing his education. By contrast, when a youth drops out of school in our country, an apprenticeship at low wages is not available for him and he finds himself faced with the formidable task of earning the legal minimum wage or being jobless. No employer can afford to pay him more than he produces and few drop-out youngsters can earn the minimum wages plus fringe benefits, social security and unemployment taxation.

In other words, our youth, upon leaving school, find themselves in competition with older and more skilled workers. This makes it impossible for large numbers to find jobs. If they could begin at low wages (which obviously is better than nothing) and move up from year to year, as they acquire skill and experience, jobs would be available for them. At the age of 18 or after three years of apprenticeship, they could join the ranks of adult workers at adult wages.

That's the way it is done in countries that have no unemployment problem. There is no reason, except politics, why it cannot be done here.

Sorensen Says Service With JFK 'Finest'

By CORNELIUS F. HURLEY

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — For 11 years Theodore C. Sorensen served the late President John F. Kennedy. Today in retrospect he viewed those years as the finest experience he'll ever have — "unforgettable."

Sorensen joined Kennedy when the latter was first elected to the Senate in 1952. He went to the White House with him as a special counsel to the President.

The day an assassin's shot ended the life of the 35th President of the United States in Dallas, Sorensen was at the White House. He doesn't want to talk about that day, or about his reactions.

Sorensen's job primarily was to write speeches for the President, and to do this he had to think like him, react like him, and write as he would — no mean task.

Close as they were, it "just came naturally" for Sorensen to switch from calling the President "Jack" to calling him "Mr. President."

In an interview with The Associated Press today, Sorensen said he couldn't recall that he ever forgot and slipped out with "Jack" after the inauguration.

In retrospect, Sorensen said he can't put his finger on any one decision or event which will eventually give Kennedy his place in history.

"There were several," he said, "and it is hard to say which was the most important."

"Maybe in 20 years when people look back they will say it was the Cuban crisis, when his decision made the Russians withdraw the missiles from Cuba, because that was the turning point in the cold war," said Sorensen.

"Maybe in 20 years, the test ban treaty will appear in the same light. Certainly that was a major decision.

"Or maybe in 20 years the decision he made on civil rights — and he was the first president to do so — his decision to put stand out.

"Maybe in 20 years the Peace Corps will appear as the one big thing, or economic unity of the trade bill.

"Then it might be in 20 years, when moon flights are commonplace, that his decision to go all cut on the space project will be remembered as the one outstanding thing he did."

Sorensen left the White House staff not long after Kennedy's death. After working several months in an office loaned to him at Harvard University, he moved to a Cape Cod hideaway to work on a book on the life and times of the late President Kennedy.

His book will be a combination of historical and personal recollections of the Kennedy administration, covering his years with Kennedy in the Senate and the White House, with personal as well as analytical material.

Highway Commission To Cut Down Requests

DENVER (UPI)— The Colorado State Highway Commission completed its annual three-day hearing into highway requests Wednesday but now must hack the nearly $200 million in proposed construction work down to about $71 million.

State Highway Engineer Charles E. Shumate and the commission heard the last of therequests Wednesday from 23 county delegations.

There were 101 delegations in all which presented requests at this year's budget hearings.

The commission will consider the requests in drawing up its 1965-66 budget and will make public its recommendations when the budget is completed next May.

There are almost 10 million Boy Scouts in the nations of the free world.

Nigerians Make New TV Room Of Old Harem

By KENNETH L. WHITING

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Television continues to grow rapidly in Africa despite occasional setbacks from clever harem keepers and fishermen who use dynamite instead of bait.

Since the first experimental TV in Casablanca less than five years ago, 13 nations have established stations.

The glowing picture tube is commonplace in the no-longer-dark continent's most populous country. Nigeria has four television stations.

Other nations with transmitters are Sierra Leone, Liberia, Ivory Coast, Upper Volta, Algeria, Congo (Brazzaville), Gabon, Kenya, Morocco, Sudan, Uganda and the United Arab Republic. Stations are being built in Ghana, Mauritius, Tunisia, Niger and Sengal. All of the TV stations in Africa are government supported.

Most obstacles have a distinct African flavor.

Installment buying of sets in Moslem northern Nigeria was stymied for a time. Purchasers who defaulted on payments blocked merchants trying to regain the receivers by playing them in their harems — which are strictly off limits to outsiders.

The northern region later outlawed the reclaiming of any installment purchase, when owners fail to meet payments. In other words, stores may sell a TV receiver on the installment plan but are prevented by law from taking it back if the buyer does not finish paying for it.

Delicate television gear was jarred by explosives dumped into the ocean near Freetown, Sierra Leone, to harvest fish. Engineers often must retune their transmitters after these fishing expeditions.

Live local shows are favored by viewers in these lands where the slick product from New York or London is not always fully understood. Folk operas, native dancers and African music are well liked. Panel shows are popular provided they are made up of local people discussing local matters.

Once introduced, television quickly gains acceptance.

The Sudan started telecasts in December 1962 intended simply as experimental entertainment during the fasting month of Ramadan. Viewers responded so vigorously that the improvised station had to be kept on the air while a bigger, more powerful transmitter was hastily constructed.

Community viewing is an immediate hit in most countries. The Ibadan, Western Nigeria, TV station planned to spot public receivers in small villages for month-long trial periods. The experiment was abandoned when enthusiastic viewers in one hamlet nearly rioted to prevent technicians from moving the receiver to another village when their 30-day trial ended.

A recent UNESCO conference in Lagos stressed TV's educational potential in a continent of great distances, poor communication, low literacy and many languages.

The conference also proposed organization of a TV personnel training center in Africa. Up to now training has been done by expatriates here on contract or by sending Africans to overseas television plants.

Managed by America's National Broadcasting Company, the Lagos station reaches n estimated 13,000 states.

Major Nigerian horse races, the opening of parliament and important national ceremonies are telecast. An assortment of musical shows usually feature the staple Nigerian high life dance.

"Ben Casey" is popular and so is the local "Health Programme" which examines West African medical problems. Police work in New York is portrayed on "Naked City" and in Glasgow, Scotland, on "Z Cars."

Another well-liked program—and nobody has accurately explained its large following here—is "Wrestling from Chicago."

Veteran American broadcasting executive Roger Bower is general manager of the station. He heads a staff which is rapidly becoming "Nigerianized" as expatriates finish training local replacements and leave the country.

A staff of 200 runs the station from a modern plant. They were winnowed from 10,000 applicants "including one from a young man who hoped we'd teach him how to be a tripod," Bower added.

Vote for LBJ Continues in Biggest Lead

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson continued to hold a record-breaking 15.6 million vote lead over Barry Goldwater Thursday as presidential election returns still were being counted.

It still may be several weeks before the final figure is moved into place and the official presidential election tally goes into the books.

With only a few states reporting final totals, the Nov. 3 scoreboard showed 69,232,995 million votes cast—the biggest turnout in history.

This included about 200,000 votes cast in Alabama for the "unpledged" slate of electors.

The latest unofficial returns gave President Johnson 42,316,766 votes in his bid for re-election. Republican nominee Barry Goldwater had 26,718,874.

This gave Johnson a lead of 15,597,892 votes.

Only a handful of the nation's 50 states have completed work on the general election. Others are still rechecking totals or awaiting the outcome of contested ballots before entering the official figure in the books.

Soviet Premier Makes Pitch for U.S. Credits

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin made a pitch to a group of American businessmen in the Kremlin today for the United States to relax its opposition to long-term credits for the Soviet Union.

Kosygin pictured Washington's ban on credits of more than five years as an obstacle to expanding trade, members of the group reported. It includes 92 executives representing 63 American corporations.

The group is exploring in closed-door conferences the possibilities of greater Soviet-American trade.

Following a policy of secrecy designed to encourage frank discussion, groups members declined to give details of the meeting with Kosygin. But they reported it was a frank exchange in which credits were mentioned.

The Soviet Union has been seeking from Western countries long-term credits to assist its industrialization, especially in chemical and related highly technical fields.

Cywood Named Appropriations Committee Chief

DENVER (UPI)— State Rep. Star Caywood, D-Walsenburg, was named chairman today of the House Appropriations Committee for the 1965 Colorado Legislature by House Speaker-elect Allen Dines, D-Denver.

Dines said that, by precedent, Caywood should become chairman of the powerful Joint Budget Committee, a six-member group with three members each from the House and the Senate.

However, chairmanship of the committee has become an issue because control of the Legislature will be split for the first time since the budget group was formed. Since the committee was formed, the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee has always been named chairman of the Budget Committee.

Democrats, who will control the House, will be entitled to two House members on the Budget Committee. One Republican member also will be named from the House Republicans, who will control the Senate, will be allowed to appoint two members of their party to the committee from the upper chamber, while only one Democratic senator will be named.

The split control will result in three Republicans and three Democrats being appointed to the Budget Committee, resulting in the confusion about a chairman. The possibility of a co-chairman arrangement has been mentioned.

Dines said, "Representative Caywood demonstrated a sound understanding of the state's fiscal problems during the past session. He is a hard-working, responsible legislator."

Caywood, 49, was re-elected to a second term Nov. 3. He is a Walsenburg businessman.

Caywood represents House Dist. 63, composed of Alamosa, Huerfano and Saguache counties.

African Quintuplets Taken to Incubators

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (UPI) — Six-day old quintuplets, the first to survive birth in Africa, went into hospital incubators here Thursday after a 300-mile ambulance ride from their home.

Their 32-year old mother, Clara Mutangua, and a nurse accompanied the babies who are still unnamed.

The Miguel Bombarda Hospital said the quints were four girls and a boy, not four boys and a girl as originally announced at their birth near the seaport of Inhambane. The four tiny girls shared two incubators and their brother had one for himself.

Mrs. Mutangua has four other children, including twins born in 1962, the hospital said.

Pro-American Briton Nabbed in Tanzania

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — A young British teacher who held a one-man pro-American demonstration in the coastal town of Lindi has been flown here and jailed without charge.

Officials said he was Peter Butchard of Brighton, who came here six months ago under Britain's "teachers for East Africa" program.

Friends of Butchard in Lindi said he parked his car on the route of a weekend demonstration protesting an alleged Western plot to invade Tanzania from Portuguese Mozambique. On the car he hung a banner pointing out that a shipload of American food had recently arrived in Lindi for thousands of refugees from Mozambique.

"He has been detained for his own safety," said a senior government official. "He has done a very serious thing. It is a very political offense."

Chinese Books Sell Briskly, Dealer Says

By JACK SCHREIBMAN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Henry H. Noyes is a happy man. His nationwide business is booming. His supplier doesn't complain about not being paid. And he has the government's blessing to trade with Red China.

Noyes, 54, runs the China books and periodicals shop in San Francisco. He carries only reading matter published on the Chinese mainland, principally at Peking.

Born in Canton, China, of missionary parents Noyes said he believes he is the only dealer of his kind in the country who obtains his stocks directly from Communist China under U.S. Treasury Department license.

Noyes carries the writings that are meticulously read throughout the world by governments and individuals who are interested in the temper of the leaders of China's 700 million population.

In business four years, Noyes said his sales are now 60,000 books and periodicals a year. His customers are 1,000 libraries, mostly college, several thousand individuals and book stores, and various offices of the U.S. Military.

Noyes strongly suspects that the things he sells are purchased in the spirit of "know thy enemy."

His all-time best seller, said Noyes, is Chairman Mao Tse-tung's "On the Protracted War," a collection of essays on politics, war and national philosophy.

Noyes' Treasury Department license permits him to import any number of publications from Peking's distributors, Guozi Shudian, but he is forbidden to pay them.

Noyes said the money that would cover a shipment is placed in escrow. The Treasury keeps an accurate record. Reason is, apparently, that it's against the law to send U.S. money to Red China.

Looking at Hollywood

LIBRARIANS HAVE HAND IN FILM SCRIPT SELECTION

HOLLYWOOD — Librarians across the land had a hand in choosing two pictures Bob Radnitz will produce at Universal. The gross on "Island of the Blue Dolphins" convinced Bob he's on the right track with family films, so he took the librarians' suggestion and bought Joe Krumgold's "And Now Miguel," winner of the 1959 Newberry award. It's a year in the life of an American-Mexican boy on a sheep ranch in New Mexico. The second, "My Side of the Mountain" by Jean George, won the Hans Christian Andersen award in '53. It tells of a modern boy who gets fed up with New York and goes to live in the Catskills. After his adventures with animals, he learns that people need people.

Roz Russell's getting all her committee meetings and parties out of the way (she's raising money for two hospitals) to be at Freddie Brisson's New York opening December 16. She still hasn't signed for a picture. She tells me Alan Lerner has the story of Chanel blocked out. It will be a musical on Broadway in another year and a half; then a picture. Roz will star.

Martin Manulis signed a big deal at Columbia — he will make his pictures there and nowhere else. They should rerun his Playhouse 90's — they're better than most TV being made today. Everybody's recording the hit tune, "Dear Heart," from Manulis' picture with Glenn Ford and Geraldine Page — Jack Jones was first, now Frank Sinatra, Joanie Sommers, and Dick Chamberlain.

Gower Champion and wife, Marge will visit Mary R Halz to discuss Mary's next TV special which will be shown at Easter time. Gower will create and direct.

The Viet Nam embassy in Washington, D. C., finally paid Mme. Nhu's bill at the Beverly Wilshire. I'll bet our embassy wishes they had her back. They wouldn't believe her when she was here.

Dinah Shore has Harry Belafonte and the peace corps for her next to be filmed in New York. Some of the young men and women who have been abroad with the peace corps will relate their experiences.

Our motion picture mothers hold their charity Bazaar Friday at the Beverly Hills Women's club. If you want to help, send something in now.

Leslie Caron will be grand marshal of Chicago's Christmas parade on Nov. 29. Before then she'll spend another week-end with her children in London. She has just returned from two weeks there. Her divorce was postponed. Her husband, Peter Hall, was busy opening a new play. Leslie also does a week of publicity in New York for "Father Goose" which opens at the Music Hall Dec. 10.

Candy Bergen went dramatic in "Thieves' Carnival" at Pennsylvania university. Her pals here sent her opening night wires. She's also art director and staff photographer for the school magazine. Walter Annenberg gave her the keys to the TV Guide darkroom, where she develops her own pictures. I told her mother to hop a plane and go on for Candy's acting debut. "Swedish money doesn't grow on trees," she said. "Everybody tells me how rich Bergen is, but that's not the way he tells it. Lew Wasserman used to carry Charlie McCarthy's case for Edgar in the early days of radio. Recently he told me, 'I knew Charlie wasn't in it. I was really carrying Bergen's money around.' "

Our ladies who never stop working for Cedars of Lebanon and Mt. Sinai hospitals think way ahead. They've already booked the premiere of "Lord Jim," and the gala they've planned for Dec. 2, with Jackie Kennedy as guest of honor, will be a doozy. They hope to raise 50 million dollars to build a pavilion in the name of the late President. And you know what? They'll do it.

John Flinn and Bryan Forbes introduced the young players from "King Rat" at a party, and showed sketches of the players and sets by Dong Kingman. James Fox introduced me to his mother who's here from England. Also met Patrick O'Neal, who's in "Rat" and "Harm's Way." He's a sure comer.

Jack Atlas said, "Your prediction came true. I have the job Frank Whitbeck did at Metro — making trailers."

Idaho Solon Attacks Unfair Tax Base

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — The reason for an unfair tax base in most states is that legislators lack the courage to do anything about it, Rep. Charles McDevitt of Boise, Idaho, said today.

In an address to the Western Conference of the Council of State Governments, McDevitt said equalization of the property tax assessment in many states would provide a good source of revenue.

"A fair ratio of assessment in many cases would lower the tax for utilities and corporations and raise the tax on homeowners," he said. "But many legislators point out that the homeowners are voters. There is an inequality of taxation, but you legislators haven't had the guts to do anything about it for 50 years. We'd rather slip an additional 1 per cent increase in sales tax, increase the income tax a little on the higher income groups or increase the tax on gasoline or cigarettes another cent."

McDevitt said there is no lack of sources of revenue, but there is a definite need in most states to equalize their entire state tax program.

Lazlo Ecker-Racz, assistant director of the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, Washington, said there has been a 4 per cent annual increase in the nation's economy, but an 8 per cent annual increase in state expenditures over the past 10 years.

He said the property tax finances more than half of the state and local governmental tax load, adding that "the disparity in property assessments is so great that if equalized it would provide states with considerably new revenues."

Ecker-Racz said "local asessors can't be tough in equalizing the tax load. It must be done with pressure, a mandate and assistance from the state level."

The conference will wind up tonight with an address by Wyoming Gov. Cliff Hansen.

PROTEST SUBMITTED

DENVER (UPI)— Plans to build a mountain tunnel eliminating Vail Pass from Interstate 70 were the target of strong protests Tuesday from officials of Summit and Lake County. The area representatives told the Colorado Highway Commission the proposed route would cost more and be more hazardous than following the original road along U.S. 6.

FEAR MORE VICTIMS

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Rescue workers expressed fear Thursday that six more bodies may be buried in the rubble of a suburban printing ink plant which was destroyed by an explosion.

Three persons were killed outright in the blast Wednesday.

Officials said six workers were listed as missing and presumed to have died.

The Red Cross said 77 persons were injured, and that 27 of them were in hospitals. One was not expected to live.

Deaf Mute Kills Brother In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—A story of brothers who quarrelled in silence ended Wednesday with the loud bark of five sudden pistol shots on a San Antonio street.

The shots felled Joseph Fields, 54. He was a deaf mute and could not hear them—just as he did not hear the shots he himself fired when he killed his brother Marshall, 51, who was also a deaf mute.

The shots that killed Joseph were fired by yet another brother, Thomas, 44, who can hear and talk normally, apparently to avenge what he felt was the unpunished murder of Marshall.

The story had its roots in the frequent and violent arguments between Joseph and Marshall. They made no sound as they quarrelled. Their fingers flashed quickly in sign language as the arguments grew heated.

They quarreled about Marshall's drinking too much. Last April, Joseph gave up on sign language and shot Marshall while he slept. Joseph walked downstairs to the manager's room in their apartment house and handed him a note: "Call the police. I just killed my brother."

A district court jury heard the case Wednesday and decided that although Joseph was sane at the time of the trial, he was insane at the time of the slaying.

Under Texas law that meant that he could not be held responsible for his brother's death. He went free, clear of the charge.

That decision angered his brother Thomas. He stalked out of his house in San Antonio Wednesday night, headed for his sister's home to tell her about the verdict.

His path crossed that of Joseph, who was walking down a street. When Joseph saw Thomas, he turned and ran.

Thomas drew a .38-caliber pistol and fired five times at his brother. Two of the shots found their mark, and Joseph lay dead in the street.

Thomas was in a cell in city jail today. Police said he would be charged with murder with malice.

"It's just something I had to do," Thomas said.

Squalor of Negro Families Is Probed

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Urban League said Wednesday a study of 68 cities throughout the United States showed "a statistical portrait of the hopelessness, squalor and despair which affects Negro families."

In Denver, officials said 26 per cent of the city's 8,760 Negro families were living on less than $3,000 a year.

Findings in other cities ranged from 15 per cent in Hartford, Conn., to 62 per cent in Little Rock, Ark.

The Mile High City scored a 33 per cent in Negro families having incomes of more than $6,000 annually. Others ranged from 44 per cent in Seattle to 8 per cent in Little Rock.

Median male income among Negroes in Denver was $3,418 while median family income was $4,693.

Fulbright Says Concessions Must Be Made

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said today the Johnson administration must be prepared to make concessions to Britain and Italy in order to assure approval of the U.S. proposal for a North Atlantic Treaty Organization nuclear force.

Fulbright said the United States and West Germany — the two chief backers of the fleet plan — "must be prepared, however reluctantly, to accept changes" in the composition of the force to avoid further division among the Western allies.

The Arkansas Democrat discussed the fleet in an address prepared for delivery before the Association for the Study of Foreign Affairs in Munich, Germany. The text was issued by his office in Washington.

If the fleet is to serve both its military and political purposes, Fulbright said, it would be well to slow down the drive for its implementation.

That, he added, would allow further consultations aimed at gaining support for the present plan of 25 surface vessels armed with Polaris missiles.

Fulbright emphasized he was voicing his personal views as a senator and not the official policy of President Johnson and the State Department, "for whom I have no authority to speak."

Undersecretary of State George W. Ball made it apparent Tuesday that Germany and the United States have agreed on a delay beyond the previous yearend deadline for an agreement of at least some weeks to give the British time to come up with any proposals.

Conservatives To Continue Vote Battle

By LYLE WILSON

Hidden somewhere among the 26 million voters who supported Sen. Barry M. Goldwater for president was a hard core of conservative citizens who may be expected to continue the bloody battle to turn the Republican party to the right. At the very least they seek to turn the party away from the left.

How many tnere may be of these hard-nosed conservatives is a question of much significance to the future of the GOP. Republicans should have some idea of those numbers before they decide who should walk the plank and who should be retained in or be promoted to party leadership.

For a starter: There are more than 200,000 hard-nosed conservatives in New York state. There is a minimum of 203,369 of them and, likely, a great many more than that. The 203,369 New Yorkers thus confidently tagged as hard-nosed conservatives were those who voted on Nov. 3 for Prof. Henry Paolucci, the Conservative Party Inc., (CPI) candidate in New York for the U.S. Senate.

If conservative Americans have nothing more to be cheerful about, they have New York state's Conservative Party Inc., a remarkable outfit. CPI was placed on the 1962 New York state ballot by petition, a formidable achievement. It fielded a candidate for governor — Syracuse businessman named David H. Jaquith who was absolutely unknown politically.

New York state requires a party to poll a minimum of 50,000 votes to remain on the ballot for the following election. Jaquith, in 1962 polled more than 141,000! This was an achievement bordering on the miraculous. It was a measure also of the burning resentment of conservative New York Republicans against the soft-boiled Republican leadership of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

The conservatives this year put up unknown Prof. Paolucci for the Senate solely as a rallying point for assembly of another protest vote against the Rockefeller - Javits leadership which CPI deplores and is determined to destroy. Paolucci's vote was sufficient warning to the soft-boiled state Republican leadership that it must in the future give some consideration to conservative citizens.

The New York Journal American summed it up in these words: "What all this means, in terms of New York politics, is that the Rockefeller Republicans must reckon with a small but potent leverage group whose vote or endorsement might make or break a GOP candidate for almost any important state office."

Might make or break candidate? In any moderately close election the upward of 200,000 conservative votes in New York state undoubtedly could assure the election or assure the defeat of a Republican candidate. And that is how the Conservative Party Inc. intends to play it.

No. 1 objective is to get rid of Rockefeller, then of Javits. After that the conservatives hopes to begin sharing top Republican policy making responsibility in New York state.

For the long view, the CPI intends to persuade Republican national conventions against the custom of rejecting conservative candidates for the presidential nomination on grounds that a conservative could not carry New York state. CPI hopes to arrange it so that Republican national conventions will come to understand that no soft-boiled or liberal Republican presidential nominee can expect to carry New York against CPI opposition.
